THIS WEEK AT UHWO

a bulletin for UH West O'ahu faculty and staff

Week of June 13

Distance education tip of the week - tiered learning

An instructional design concept that may be helpful when planning future courses is tiered learning. This approach outlines three levels of information distribution for easier learning. The first or highest level focuses on audio-visual information such as a quality introduction video. The second level involves detailed, text-based information including strategies and tips. The third level provides opportunities for interaction and skill application with activities that engage the learner, increase retention and help the student meet learning outcomes.
