Fondue History

The Custom originated long ago among the peasants of Switzerland. Out of a fervent desire to utilize hardened cheese and bread, the Swiss concocted a mouth-watering cheese-wine mixture. The cheese was melted in wine, and the bread cubes were then dunked in the mixture.

Fondue Bourguignonne, according to legend, had it's beginning in the famous vineyards of the Burgundy region of France. During the harvest the grapes had to be picked at the precise time of ripeness without even stopping to eat! Someone had the idea of keeping a pot of fat boiling so each worker could quickly cook his own pieces of meat in spare moments. The Swiss, famous for Cheese Fondue, developed the idea to it's present form and honored its Burgundy origin by calling it Fondue Bourguignonne.
