Family Of Singers To Come Here

The next attraction to be presented under sponsorship of the Maui Philharmonic Society will be the world famous "Trapp Family Singers" Ralph, Gailers, program chairman, revealed Thursday. The concert will be held on Friday evening, February 20, at 8 p.m.

This family group, consisting of the mother, six daughters and three sons, have made musical history during the past decade as one of the most unusual musical aggregations ever to come before the public.

In an article on this remarkable family in the Readers Digest said "few families in America have caught the imagination and affection of the public more than the famous Trapp Family Singers have," while the New York Times called them "one of the best ensembles in the world," and the Chicago Tribune said "a musical event wholly out of the beaten path."

This group has made seven transcontinental tours, playing to capacity houses everywhere. Recently they made their first South American tour and gave 61 sold-out concerts in 12 weeks.

This is the group's first visit to the islands. The group will appear in their colorful Tyrolean costumes and give a program combining folk songs and exquisites pre-classical airs, lullabies and lulling madrigals, majestic sonnets and rarely-heard instrumental music performed on quaint blockflutes, gamba and spinet.

In line with the new Philharmonic policy, admission prices will be kept down despite the extra cost of bringing a large group like this one to Maui. There will be a limited number of reserved seats with the balance of the house unreserved. Tickets will be on sale at Maui Book Store in the near future.

GOP Song Compet Deep Secret Until Mossman Arrival

Mrs. Nina Mossman, Republican national committee woman for Hawaii, was on Maui Friday to arrange with Republican officials for the staging of the Island song contest to select Maui's winners for the territorial finals to be held at McKinley auditorium in Honolulu on April 19 at the time of the territorial convention.

A group of eight women from Maui will be selected to represent the Valley Isle in an all-island song contest, Mrs. Mossman said.

Mrs. Mossman's arrival on Maui was not announced to the press until she herself called The Maui News to give the newspaper the information concerning the purpose of her visit. She did not know whether or not the Maui County committee, headed by Chairman W. F. Crockett, planned to stage a contest or make a selection on its own without competition.

Senator Crockett could not be reached for a statement of plans up to press time Friday.

Almeida Boys Like Army Life

Mr. and Mrs. Manuel Almeida of Honolulu are the parents of two Regular Army men who are enjoying life in the armed forces. They are Corporal George Almeida, currently assigned to the 1st Air Cavalry Division at Schofield Barracks, Oahu, and Private First Class Harry Almeida, a member of the 1st Airborne Division assigned in Kentucky but presently engaged in "Operations Seawall" in New York.

George was drafted on January 29, 1951, but liked army life so well that he enlisted in the Regular Army for three years on October 8, 1951. He was promoted to corporal last November 25 and plans to make a career in the Regular Army, which, according to him, offers good pay, food, security, and training.

Harry is following in the footsteps of his older brother, James, an expert diver, with the 32nd Airborne Division who is now employed by Kahului Railroad Company. Harry selected the Airborne when he enlisted on April 2, 1951, and completed basic training at Schofield before being sent to Fort Benning, Georgia, to receive his paratrooper training.

According to his mother, Harry likes the paratrooper life so well that he plans to reenlist for another three years.

The Almeidas have two army veterans sons in James and Albert. The latter served with the army engineers and was discharged in 1947.

Manuel and Lydia Almeida believe it is for the best to have their sons serve their country and enjoy reading letters received from their boys.

Craig Makes Plea For "Lincoln" Republicans

The idea of government as the instrument and not the master of the people was inherent in the mind of Lincoln. It is reflected today in the statements of those who aspire to lead the Republican Party. Robert S. Craig, guest speaker from Honolulu, told a gathering of 150 Maui Republicans at the Lincoln's Birthday Dinner held at the Grand hotel on Tuesday night.

"This is the time," he said, "for more Republicans to recognize that the living spirit of this party is not in the past but in the future. It is the spirit of Lincoln, the spirit of the Lincoln Republican Party. The dinner was staged by the Maui-Republican County Committee with Senator W. E. Cookey as master of ceremonies. Messages from Guy Gabrielson, National Republican party chairman; H. Wall Delegate to Congress Joseph I. Farrington; and Randolph Crowley, Territorial Republican party chairman, were read at the dinner.

Craig, an economist with the Hawaiian Economic Service, included his audience in his coming Maui, when he opened his talk by stating that "just before visiting this platform," he had heard a news flash from Washington which said: "Abraham Lincoln still lives."

He then admitted that the idea of Lincoln, born February 12, 1809, living today, February 12, 1952—143 years later—was a fantastic hoax, a "concoction of my own imagination." However, he revealed that his audience, which included many mainland guests now visiting Maui, when he opened his talk by stating that "just before visiting this platform," he had heard a news flash from Washington which said: "Abraham Lincoln still lives."

"Abraham Lincoln is a living, conscious, creative personality in the world today. He is the greatest asset of the Republican party and probably the greatest asset of America."

Craig quoted statements of living Republican leaders to "submit evidence of his (Lincoln's) current existence as a dynamic and healthy personality leading and guiding the American people generally and the Republican party in particular."

Quoted were: The Republican Fact Book 1951-52, published by the Republican National Committee; on liberty and basic concepts; General Dwight D. Eisenhower, on freedom and law; Lincoln in particular.

Two youthful pedestrians—Joseph Kani, 16, of Lahaina, and Patrick Riley, 10, of Kula, were injured in auto accidents the week when they allegedly ran into the paths of moving vehicles.

Kani ran into the right fender of a car which Takao Yamachi of Lahaina was operating on Front street in Lahaina on Monday night, and was treated for abrasions at Pioneer Mill hospital. Riley was hit by the right end portion of the bumper of Mrs. Thelma Coon's sedan when he attempted to run across Hana highway to a bus near Kaunua school on Thursday. He was taken to Puahe hospital, where he was placed under confinement for observation of possible internal injuries.

There were two other accidents, one each on Lanai and Molokai, raising the total for the month to 17.

BE A CITIZEN SOLDIER
All elected Republican County officials were present at the dinner. County Clerk Toshio Enomoto, Robert Lee and Mrs. W. O. Smith were in charge of the event. Mrs. William Perry was ticket chairman and Mrs. Dorothy Vortman and Mrs. A. D. Woodway handled decorations. Entertainment was provided by Bill Helms' troupe and dancing followed the dinner.

Seven Maui Young Men Join Army
Choosing the Regular Army for their branch of service, seven Maui youngsters took their oaths of enlistment on Tuesday, February 12, at a United States Army recruiting main station on Ala Moana boulevard and Richard street in Honolulu.

They are: Private So Han Lee, son of Mr. and Mrs. Don W. Lee, of Camp 5, Puunene; Private Charles Y. Tokunaga, son of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Tokunaga, of Waikele; Private Akio Sakamoto, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Y. Sakamoto, of Kailua; Private Stan Y. Motooka, son of Mr. and Mrs. Yasutaro Motooka, of Hana; Private Jack M. Hayase, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. Hayase, of Wailuku; and Private Tadashi Yamamoto, of Lahaina.

Six of the seven volunteers accepted Army Technical School for their enlistment choice and were accepted for the following courses they had applied for: Pvt. "S" graduates of Baldwin high school, machinist course at Aberdeen Proving Grounds, Maryland; Pvt. Yoshitaka, 'S' graduate of St. Anthony high school, aircraft maintenance course at the Armed School, Fort Knox, Kentucky; Pvt. Yamamoto, 'S' graduate of Lahaina high school, office machine repair course at the Quartermaster School, Fort Lee, Virginia; Private Tokunaga, Motooka and Hayase, 'S' graduates of St. Anthony high school, Lahaina high school, respectively, clerical procedure and typing course at the Specialist Training School, Fort Ord, California.

Private Sakamoto selected Regular Army school for his enlistment choice. He was employed by Maui Venetian Blind Company in Wailuku prior to his enlistment and will report to the classification and assignment office in the SARPAC upon completion of basic training at the Hawaiian Infantry Training Center, Schofield Barracks, for further assignment.

The other six men will undergo their basic training at the ITTC, also and upon completion will be transferred to the mainland to enter their respective schools of course, according to Sergeant First Class Herbert T. C. Lo, local P. S. Army recruiting representative.

Vierra In Praise Of Project

Kahului Plan Well Advanced In Low Cost Building

Maui's Kahului housing project is well advanced in low-cost home building thinking.

This is the observation brought back by Theodore A. Vierra, Kahului Development Co. architect and consulting architect for the Hawaiian Sugar Planters' Association, from the recent Chicago convention of the U. S. National Association of Home Builders.

Vierra and three other KDC representatives to the NAHB convention returned from the mainland last weekend. The three other KDC representatives are: Walter K. Zolbins, KDC's assistant manager; Akira Misawa, the company's contractor (Standard Construction Co.); and Marquis Collins, manager of A&B Commercial Co.'s building and mill supply department.

Collins told The Maui News Monday that "no housing project on the mainland stacks up to ours both in design and overall plan."

"All four of us found the NAHB panel discussions extremely interesting," Vierra observed, "and we are convinced that much was gained by us from this gathering of the nation's leaders in this field."

The discussions of building techniques, designs and materials, Vierra added, "convinced us that the Kahului housing project is well advanced in low-cost home building thinking, and we were more than pleased to discover things being discussed which were done at Kahului three years ago."

Following the Chicago convention, the four Hawaii representatives travelled separately to various sections of the country to inspect various home building developments.

All four KDC representatives at the NAHB meeting met Wednesday at Kahului for a roundtable summation of the observations they made during their home building inspections on the mainland, and to plan to make the best possible use of all that's new and worthwhile in the current and future phases of the new Kahului town project.

Meanwhile, Vierra is looking forward to the possibility of the Kahului housing project being featured in a forthcoming issue of House & Home, a sister publication to Architectural Forum and the latest magazine publishing venture of Time, Inc. While in New York, he discussed this possibility with Joseph C. Hazen Jr.,

H. R. Sanchez, director of the Zamboanga Pictures, Incorporated, of Manila, Philippines, who produced the Philippine Island war picture, in English, "Blood of Bataan," arrived on Maui by plane Thursday for the premiere showing Saturday of his film at the Baldwin auditorium, according to P. 125 All Around

Under the bright Hawaiian sun on Saturday, February 9, 133 boy scouts and explorers from the east, central, west Maui, and Lanai districts, actively participated in the annual field first aid demonstration at the main street park in Kahului, across from the A & B Super Market.

Carrying on in true form to live up to their motto, "Be Prepared," the scouts and explorers in commemorating their 42nd anniversary exhibited a fine example of scout training as they paced through the tests of field first aid, personal first aid, tactical problems and artificial resuscitation.

Under the watchful eye of Judge Jackie Crowell of the American Red Cross and Walter Bates, ABC first aid instructor, the explorers in the artificial resuscitation problem had to wade into the cool waters of Kahului harbor and "fish" out an assumed drowned victim. Using various standard carries, 13.e explorers recovered the bodies and began applying artificial resuscitation in a matter of seconds, without hindrance of rhythm or sequence.

According to the fastest recovery of the drowned victim out of the waters of the bay were the explorers of Post 125 of Honolulu, West Maui, as they set a record time of 17 seconds.

Accompanying Sanchez from Honolulu were James Hogue and Sixto Baconillo of the Balestero Limited, of Honolulu, exhibitor of the film in the Territory of Hawaii. According to Respielo, Sanchez and officials of the Balestero Limited, will head the reception line that will greet more than 200 government officials, management and labor leaders here who were invited to attend the premiere showing of this picture Saturday at 6:30 p. m. JUDICIAL SLAPSTICK dirty linen in the full view of the public; it is most unseemly that personal animosities that have been smoldering beneath the surface and out of the public eye are permitted to become moving scenes in what has all the appearances of a juvenile squabble, but what is surely and undubitably exacting courts and their judgments into public dispute.

If the juries are, in fact, illegal, there is a perfectly simple, lawful method by which their legality can be tested in a jurisdiction of higher status than the local federal district court. Judge McLaughlin's denial of defense motions questioning the panels by no means exhausted the opportunities for appeal. Attorneys for the seven defendants could have carried the question to the U. S. district court of appeals in San Francisco, and even higher, if again reversed.

In the light of this patent fact, one wonders why Judge McLaughlin set a legal precedent so abruptly by overruling his own ruling, thus setting himself up in the position of an appellate justice and placing Judge McLaughlin in an extremely embarrassing and highly unpleasant situation.

In view of the curious circumstances we ask that a prompt and vigorous demand for a justice department investigation of the case be made by Delegate Farrington. It also might be well for the Delegate to remind the JD and the President that a vacancy exists on the federal bench and has existed since last September!

NO CHARGE FOR THE FIGHT INDUSTRY

Maui is currently engaged in raising the Valley Isle's quota of the 1952 Hawaii Visitors Bureau budget and there is every indication pointing to complete success, just as in the case of Oahu.

So often one hears criticism that Honolulu hotel operators and others catering to the tourist trade discourage our visitors from touring the Outside Islands and selfishly attempt to keep them at Waikiki. This was patently true at one time in pre-war years but it most certainly is now the exception and not the rule, and the local hotel, restaurant and other businesses tending to do with tourists actually encourage them to see all the sights of all Hawaii.

Unfortunately none of the Outside Islands have adequate hotel accommodations to offer and in this respect Maui is undoubtedly at the greatest disadvantage of all. This naturally acts as a barrier to unrestricted travel between the Islands by tourists but we have no one but ourselves to blame for this impediment.

Some day tourist accommodations throughout the Islands will be sufficient to provide in full measure for the demand. Then the real tourist boom will be on. Until that time, we are merely scratching the surface, but at that, it is highly remunerative scratch!

WE'RE ONLY ONE HOME TOWN FARTER—MAUI NEWS

Even if we are guilty of stepping out of newspaper character in an outburst of personal immaturity we're going to drive straight ahead and suffer the consequences, because we intend to say we're real proud of our Maui News contemporary, William J. (for Jones not Jazz) Belknap, known as The Old Town Crier, Mr. Aloha Maui, HVB Chairman, originator of the tourist dollar round-up, church trustee and, with a right good fellow, a solid, loyal friend and a dependable, substantial fellow-worker.

Belknap was chosen "Star Member Of The Month" Monday night by the Maui Chamber of Commerce and if anyone on Maui deserved the honor at the beginning of a year, it was the gentleman of the press with so many jobs, titles, interests and enthusiasms.

Men-of-all-work such as Belknap generally wind up getting forgotten except that they usually catch all the criticism that the side-liners have to toss about.

So, we're grateful, happy and proud that one of our own kind got the nod.

He richly deserved them.

FAITH IN THE FUTURE

Monday will mark another step in the development of Maui and the New Town of Kahului when the spanking new branch of the Bank of Hawaii opens its doors at 8 o'clock and commences transacting business.

The building of the Kahului branch is a direct reflection of the faith in the future of Maui held by the authorities of the Bank of Hawaii, in Honolulu as well as on Maui, and is concrete evidence of the policy of the bank to keep pace with island progress by providing a complete banking service in modern surroundings.

The building likewise demonstrates that the Bank of Hawaii is building for the future, a bright future, indeed, if all current signs are to be taken at full value.

And what a bright future! Kahului's day to greet a new institution, Wailuku will have far behind and soon another indication of the bank's faith in Maui and its progressive policy will be found in the building that will go up at Maui and Market.

Maui celebrates congratulations with grateful appreciation for these outward marks of confidence in the Valley Isle.

ANOTHER SUGAR PIONEER PASSES

Another of those sturdy pioneers from the "old country" who helped to build Hawaii's sugar industry has left the scene of his life's endeavors, no more to return.

The many who knew quick-spoken, friendly "Jim" Smith will remember him as a 40-year veteran of HAWAIIAN sugar, a man of few words, yet kindly and with a twinkling sense of humor.

James Smith, 61, died his part in the building of the Valley Isle of today.

WE'RE PROUD OF THE 1ST BATTALION

The recent fillers you have been finding in THE MAUI NEWS boosting the National Guard are a splendid opportunity to thank you in behalf of the Maui-Molokai National Guard units for the splendid support your paper has given us during 1951. It might seem odd for me to wait until February to write this letter, but it was necessary for me to wait until the final reports were received from The Inspector General, USAFPC, and enough material was on hand to make the letter possible.

The support of your community, private companies on Maui and Molokai, and the support of the Maui Island Command to have the best year in all respects since the end of World War II. This fact is supported by the majority of The Inspector General's recent inspection.

In 1951, we were able to improve our facilities to a marked degree. We have been able to erect a new building for Company "C" and will permit that unit to adequately and safely store its property worth thousands of dollars. We have been able to erect a new building to provide additional classroom space which has been sorely needed in the past. The old army at Lahaina has been replaced by two Quonset huts which are modern in every respect, and represent the ideal for a company-sized unit. Our Service Center at Paukukalo has been black-painted, thereby saving the Territory and Federal Governments many dollars by reducing the amount of maintenance and the damage to vehicles, parts, and tools by dust and mud. The permanent National Guard company on Maui have, on their own time and at their own initiative, saved the Federal Government thousands of dollars by repairing the target ranges at Paukukalo and Olowalu and by adding classroom space in the Wailuku and Pala armories.

At the beginning of 1951, this headquarters initiated a program in supply economy for which all units were cited by the Inspector General. This program was carried out by the 1st Battalion and has been taken on at all command levels within the Battalion for reduction in the loss, waste, and expense of supplies. The 1st Battalion has been cited for its excellent performance in the 1951 Field Training Period on Oahu. Company "D", commanded by Captain Solomon Lee, recovered over $100 worth of government property lost during the confused days of organization in 1947.

It is a fact that soldier not present for drill is of no benefit either to his unit or to himself. We have made remarkable strides in drill attendance during 1951. From a battalion drill attendance average of 47% in 1950, we have brought our average up to 80% at the end of 1951. Lieut. Carlo Capoli, commanding officer of Hq. & Hq. Co., 1st Bn., 29th Inf., reported to me that his company had a 100% drill attendance. Considering the strength of this unit of 81 enlisted men, this is a remarkable achievement.

Strength of the battalion has consistently improved in spite of the serious losses sustained when the draft took all our men who enlisted in July 1, 1951. This loss was most keenly felt by Company "F", Kauaiala, commanded by Capt. Louis T. Self, where we took a loss of 10 men from the 1st Battalion. In spite of this loss, the company maintained a normal attitude, we have three units at full authorized strength. Companies "D", Hq. & Hq. Co., and 1st Bn., Medical, have also maintained a normal attitude. The 1st Battalion has been experienced, however, in Companies A, B, and C, because of a persistent rumor that enlistment in the National Guard by men under 18 years old will result in their being drafted into the Army or Navy. This rumor has been spread by the press and by the community. Your effort you might make to inform the community that 17 and 18 year olds who enlist in the National Guard will not be drafted into the Army or Navy. Enlistment will postpone his induction as long as he attends drill regularly and properly will be appreciated by all units.

It is a fact that the 1st Battalion has been a model of hope, plans, and expectations. Henry Mortar Company, commanded by Lt. Chester K. Long, on the night of the inspection stated the best instruction I have ever received in the field was given by the 1st Battalion. Their performance prompted the Inspector General to commend Lieut. Long "for his leadership, energy and thoroughness in the conduct of the inspection and for his effective instruction and the development of high morale and unit pride in his command." Lieut. Long's performance was a model of what a commander should be. His knowledge and his confident and effective manner in the delivery of a particularly effective class on the technique and effects of rifle fire.

Company "A", commanded by Lieut. Joseph Kahoonahono, was mentioned especially by the Inspector General for his excellent performance in which the unit had carried out and preserved government property during the wind storm last year and during the period in which the 1st Battalion was in the field. The 1st Battalion was commended for "his thorough knowledge and his confident and effective manner" in the delivery of a particularly effective class on the technique and effects of rifle fire.

Joseph Kahoonahono, was mentioned especially by the Inspector General for his excellent performance in which the unit had carried out and preserved government property during the wind storm last year and during the period in which the 1st Battalion was in the field. The 1st Battalion was commended for "his thorough knowledge and his confident and effective manner" in the delivery of a particularly effective class on the technique and effects of rifle fire.

Unfair Competition

By GEORGE PECK

(EDITOR'S NOTE: George Peck is Chairman of the Board of the National Management Foundation and Executive Editor of the official publication, PARKER'S.)

Uncle Sam's taxing power has become something of enormous importance. It now requires huge revenues with which to finance the defense program and to pay the interest on the national debt. The emergency is over and for many a year thereafter, he will need huge revenues to meet the interest on the public debt, to begin to pay off the part of that indebtedness which is a debt to the future, and to carry on the ordinary business of his government.

Anything that interferes with the right of the Federal Government to tax the individual states and the municipalities of the nation to tax ANY business, must be removed. For example, the theory that government services are being provided should be exempt from taxation. Such is the case of the actual government of nation, state or municipality should be exempt from taxation. Such is the case of the actual government of nation, state or municipality should be exempt from taxation. Such is the case of the actual government of nation, state or municipality should be exempt from taxation.
