The opening general session was held Thursday morning in the Baldwin High School library with the welcoming address being given by Maui Chamber President Kazuo Kake, while Richard H. Wheeler, former Honolulu Mayor and Chamber originator, the Trade Tour idea, said, "I am tremendously pleased with the turnout. Mr. Wheeler introduced the distinguished guests, including Farrant L. Turner, secretary of Hawaii; Senators Mary K. Robinson, Ben Dillingham, Wendell F. Crockett, Rep. Dee Dugan, former Honolulu Mayor Charles S. Crane, Dr. Jesse Hobson, William Hoskins and Charles E. Black of the Stanford Research Institute.

Demos Split Harold Hall Into Camps Of Lahaina For Primary Seeks House

Democrat Chairman To Wage First Campaign
Elmer F. Cravalho, County Committee Chairman of the Democratic Party of Maui formally announced his candidacy for election to the Territorial House of Representatives and this dispelled rumors and speculation as to what political office he would be seeking this year, one of which was County Clerk, which Cravalho told the Maui News Wednesday he would only if Clerk Toshio Enomoto should seek the chairmanship.

In a statement to the Maui News Wednesday, Cravalho said, "While I did not intend to make any formal announcement of my candidacy for the House, I feel that it is important to me to do so at the present time in order to end all rumors. My decision to run for the house is based on my deep and ever growing concern for the economic welfare of the County and Territory. In the very serious times which will be facing us, I especially feel that sound, conscientious public service is needed. I feel that my past eight years of service as a teacher in the various schools of Maui have given me an understanding of the needs of our Community. In addition, in my work with the ranchers and a community organization, I have had the opportunity to be

Laundry Closing To Be Proposed
One of the final recommendations to be sent to the Hospital Managing Committee by Edward C. Gallas at its meeting Tuesday night will be one close down the hospital's laundry.

The laundry has been a focal point of dissent and controversy ever since the hospital was opened. Nephew and union bickering are only two aspects of such a clean, foresight and the know-how so necessary in such a . . . breaking venture.

The headman is John F. Cross, a former Navy reserve officer, skipper and laundry to a commercial plant.

County Clerk To Open Evening
In order to accommodate those citizens who desire to register to vote in the primary election, the Maui County clerk's office will remain open evenings from Monday through Thursday, Deputy County Clerk Bonifacio Espinda announced Friday.

Hannibal Tavares To Make Run For Board
Hannibal Tavares, Republican and well known community leader, has announced his candidacy for Maui County Supervisor.

In making his announcement, Tavares said, "Maui is the place of my birth and I have every intention of raising my family and spending my life here, therefore, I am genuinely interested in the welfare of Maui."

"I am aware of the many difficult problems confronting the Board of Supervisors and I can see room for a great deal of improvement in the way these problems are handled."

"All I ask is at least one chance to show if I have what it takes."

Tavares' experience is varied. For seven years, he was a member (Continued on Page 3)

Gallas To Give Plan Tuesday To Hospital Group
A proposal that legislation be sponsored at the 1955 session of the legislature that would authorize the establishment of Maui Memorial Hospital as a Community Hospital, will be presented to the Hospital Managing Committee by Acting Superintendent Edward C. Gallas, at the next meeting of the committee scheduled to take place next Tuesday evening at the hospital at 7:30 o'clock, it was revealed Wednesday morning by Mr. Gallas in an exclusive interview with The Maui News.

A tentative draft of a bill setting up Memorial on the basis of a Community Hospital will be handed to the members of the committee Tuesday by Mr. Gallas for their study and consideration. The proposal is acted upon favorably, members of Maui's house and senate delegations will be asked to sponsor the bill in the 1955 session.

Under terms of the bill a representative group of citizens would become trustees and members of the governing body of the hospital. They would represent the various groups and interests in Maui County and would be appointed by those groups for staggered terms to insure continuity of policy.

Among the groups considered for representation would be the county medical association, which would be required to name a non-physician to the board in keeping with accepted practice in Mainland hospital administration and in compliance with the American Medical Association's recommendation, the Territorial Board of Health, Board of Supervisors, Plantation Association, ILWU, AFL, HGEA, Maui Chamber of Commerce, Maui Veterans Council, and several other representative groups. A seven or nine-member board will be recommended.

Financing of the hospital would probably be on a joint community-government basis, with the county contributing in respect to the Visitors Bureau which receives a legislative appropriation which would be matched by private business and individuals.

Administration would be similar to that now in effect at Memorial, the principal difference being in the non-political complexion of the governing board and the responsibility of the board members which would be directly to the community and not to the political group such as the board of supervisors.

Gallas-Vance Say Aloha On Tuesday
Tuesday evening's meeting of the Hospital Managing Committee will be the first for incoming Superintendent Thomas B. Vance, and the last for Acting Superintendent Edward C. Gallas, whose appointment as acting head will expire at midnight that night.

Mr. Vance arrived at noon Wednesday and has been undergoing a busy day-night in his new position. He is expected to inaugurate his administration in company with the acting super.

Mr. Gallas' work in cleaning up the "Memorial Hospital mess" and the improvements and efficiencies installed under his direction are expected to draw a resolution of commendation from the managing committee when it meets Tuesday.

SCHOOL SUBS TO MAUI NEWS
Betsy Morioka, who handles the circulation accounts for Maui News, reminds Maui County's students who will be leaving for new environs that their old hometown newspaper is available to them for the full school year at special prices, $4 instead of $8 in the Islands and $5 in stead of $7 to those going to the Mainland for study.

Just send in your name, she says, and the proper amount and The Maui News will start going out to you the issue after your departure from home.

"Those desiring airmail should count on paying an additional $2.10 per month to cover postage."

There is only one way to keep in touch with what's going on in Maui County, Betsy says, and that's through the only newspaper covering all happening everywhere, The Maui News.

Saga Of Keeau Orchard Rises Out Of South Hilo Lava Beds

Men, Money Build New Industry

destroyer in the Pacific WW II. The money, $1,100,000, came from Castle & Cooke's far-sighted board of directors. The machines were bulldozers, scrapers, fencepost hole diggers, and a variety of other equipment that Uncle Sam used to build airstrips across the Pacific in the fateful days of the mid-40s.

The jungle was literally torn from its deeply imbedded roots and shoved into huge piles and burned. The unevenly flowing lava beds were scraped down to size and evened up, the post holes were chewed big, round pukas in the lava into which went soil, fertilizer and macadamia seedling, properly pruned and grafted. One must see to believe and to realize the immensity of the project. That jungle was as rough and tough as any in the South Pacific. But it gave way and is giving way under the relentless driving of John Cross and his small crew of skilled workmen.

Keeau Orchard has a "museum" area where are shown fruit and nut-bearing trees from all over the world. Itches among promising island industry that will supplement macadamia with pineapples, walnuts, choice almonds and others from far off places that defy pronunciation and spelling. A stretch of jungle that has been left intact through the years has been a rough trail leading into the depths and back out again, just to give visitors a bird's-eye view of what Cross and his men had to go through to get a toehold at Keeau. And birds there in this tangle, of all descriptions, plumage and song. Also there are wild orchids, bamboo, umbrella tree brought in by Dr. Harold Lyons and now growing as well here as it does in its native habitat.

The occasion of the press party was the harvesting of the first crop, after six hard, cold, discouraging years. It will be only a small harvest, a few tons, 6,000 pounds to be exact. But by 1970 the harvest will mount to 5,000,000 pounds per year and the macadamia industry will be well on its way to a prominent and permanent place in Hawaii industry. . . because, C&C hopes that, others on the Big Island and elsewhere will take up the torch and ship them to Keeau's plant for processing and in time, other plants will spring up in various parts of the Territory.

And as by-products at Keeau develop, there will be other smaller industries to contribute to the prosperity of Hawaii, the Island and the Territory.

When the clearing and planting is completed there will be upwards of 70,000 "Mac"s in the ground as well as those sands upon thousands of other trees, principally, perhaps, liches which are now out to about three acres and

AN EXPENSIVE NUT—"That's the most expensive nut I have ever eaten," exclaimed Alexander G. Budge, president of Castle & Cooke, Limited, as he bit into the first "Mac" to roll out of the "salt shaker" at Keeau Orchard's pilot macadamia processing plant. Mr. Budge referred to the $1,100,000 that has already gone into the development of this promising new industry. The nuts were "one" declared the 20-add newsmen who were taken on a tour of the South Hilo orchard that is growing from a lava bed. Standing with Mr. Budge is John Cross, manager of Keeau Orchard. doing nicely, thank you. The writer traveled in the car piloted by Fred W. Simpson, Jr., treasurer of C&C and one of the company's spearheads in the new projects area. You can't think in small terms or figures if you are after a new development that will create a real year-round employment opportunity," he said, and went on to show why.

"Here at Keeau, we have spent $1,100,000 and when the project gets into a settled position, we will have created only 25 regular, permanent jobs for skilled men in the field and factory. There will be seasonal employment, but only 25 new when we begin thinking in terms of unemployment relief through new industries."

The pilot plant that will turn out this year's crop is an experiment under direction of Donald Mahaffay, factory superintendent, who is seeking ways and means of simplifying the processing of macadamia and laying plans for the building of the permanent factory. The pilot plant turns out a fine "Mac" as the press party discovered the easy way, by tasting copious numbers as they rolled out of the "salt shaker."

The "Mac" might be described as a very wet nut, that is the dehydrating process is long and costly in time, taking about four weeks to get the nut in condition for heating and then trying in deep fryer oil, much like one would turn out French fries. The little pilot plant is meticulously clean and everything is in place, much in the fashion of an assembly line. Most of the operation now is hand-governed, on an experimental basis, but as Mahaffay said, what is being done by hand now, can be done by machines in the future and there are many to do it, given certain adaptations, so this year's crop is the guinea pig and will help Keeau Orchard to build a model fac-

Munoz Buys 21 Acres From WSCO

New Subdivision To Open Up In Mill St. Area
Frank Munoz and his wife have purchased 21 acres of plantation property from Waiuku Sugar Company for subdividing on Mill Street, Mokulele and Mokuha Road.

According to a deed filed with the Territorial Bureau of Conveyances, the sale price was $119,500. It is understood that Munoz is subdividing the area into a total of 80 lots with land areas starting at 6,000 square feet. They are to be made available as vacant building lots or as "package deals" with three-bedroom houses. Prices will range from $1,500 to $3,000 for the lots and from $7,000 to $8,500 for the "package deal."

Munoz is the former president of Frank Munoz & Associates, a real estate development firm formed by about a dozen Maui men who invested $243,204 for 65 acres at Waiuku last year.

Last week in Honolulu's First Circuit Court Mr. Munoz, through Attorney Robert E. Brown, filed suit against Frank Munoz & Associates, Ltd. for $98,000 in an alleged breach of contract suit, the amount he claims is due him under his contract.

C&C is offering several scholarships in the cultivation of "Mac"s at the University and already they have paid off through the development of agricultural techniques and the production of new parent trees through pruning and grafting. It's still in the experimental stage but it's coming fast. In conclusion, we might add a warning to anyone with ambition in the direction of inaugurating a new industry . . . first, have your first million well tucked away in the bank on instant call . . . second, have the second million nicely salted down in securities . . . third, better have two or three million more in close vision and readily accessible . . . and, lastly, remember, miracles do not happen, they are performed by men like Cross, Shigeura, Mahaffay and their trained crews, backed by institutions like Castle & Cooke and men like Alexander G. Budge, president, Simpson and the rest of their associates.

Maui Faces Quiet Election: Weelie Deserts To Oahu!

(Special From Oponui)
Awee an' begorra, it's gonna be a quiet campaign and poor ole Arthur Woolaway is going to be left all alone to argue with himself.

Weelie Crozier has deserted his Maui stomping grounds and his beloved radio protagonist and gonna run for the house in the Fourth Oahu District. And wot will we do without that loud speaker perched atop the old Crozier jalopy? Maybe we oughta paraphrase the old saying Maui's loss is Oahu's gain.

My personal campaign will be based on issues, free from personalities and personal invective, with a dedication to truth and facts. West Maui Seeks 2nd R-R Crown

Kaahue To Make 11th Appearance; Cards Play Maui Pine

Right-hander George Kaahue, Lahaina's durable workhorse and one of the most valuable players in the Maui Senior Baseball League, will be in the spotlight on Sunday when he makes his 11th mound appearance of the season for West Maui against Punene's Cubs in the crucial climax of the "Chu" Balwin round-robin series at the Punene diamond.

The "Cinderella" diamonders from the Westside are at it again and a repeat of their 1952 miracle finish, when they made a clean sweep of the three-game series, much to the unexpectation of the partisan senior league fans, seems very probable. Lahaina, which barely qualified for the series with a 10-inning win over Maui Pine on the final day of the regular season two years ago, hurdled a major obstacle last week when they upset the regular Maui Cardinals for their second round-robin win.

The Cardinals, who were favored to score their second consecutive double sweep, will meet the Piners in the 12:30 opener of Sunday's double-header and accomplish something which they have not been able to do this season. That is to defeat Maui Pine, which handed them a pair of 7-6 and 8-7 losses in earlier clashes.

West Maui and Punene have split their two games to date and this weekend's skirmish will serve as the "rubber" match. The Cubs won initially, 10-5, while Lahaina countered with a 10-9 win.

Kaahue holds the key to WMCA's duplicating success. In 1952 when he paced Lahaina by compiling a season's record of nine wins and three losses, and batted a surprising .387 to finish runner-up in the batting championship race, the busy

WELCOME HOME, CHAMPS—On hand to greet the Cubs at the Hawaiian Airlines terminal on their triumphant return from the three-day Territorial Little League tournament held on Hawaii last weekend were more than 200 local backers, among whom were numerous parents and young congratulators. Also there to give the champions a rousing reception was Chairman Eddie Tam, Miss Aloha Maui and the Valley Island Sweethearts, the Grayliners' song and dance entertainment troupe, and members of the sponsoring Maui Lions Club.

Preliminary Plans Set For 3rd Fair Golf Open

Preliminary plans for the biggest little golf tournament in Hawaii, the third annual Maui Invitational Open championships, were drawn at the first meeting of a committee, headed by Dr. Seiya Ohtsuka, on Thursday night at the Bank of Hawaii building in Kahului.

No definite plans were set, however, due to the absence of seven committeemen but further details will be discussed at another meeting scheduled next Wednesday at 7:30 p.m.

Discussion on Thursday was centered on the professional purse and prize list for the amateurs. Indications point to one of the best as assortment of prizes ever offered to an amateur field in the Territory while the pros have a "guarantee" of $500 on their end.

Sabers Play Vikings On Labor Day

Maui high school has lined up its first pre-season football game with Hilo high school at the Kahului Fairgrounds on Monday, September 6, which, according to the present schedule, will be the Vikings' only appearance on the Valley Island.

Previous attempts to get Castle High and St. Louis College for games here on September 5 by the Sabers failed. Both the Maui High and Baldwin High elevens will play two pre-season games while Lahaina and St. Anthony have three games scheduled before they meet on October 1 in the league opener.

The Lunas will also open the local grid season on September 6 against Kamehameha Warriors at the Malu-ula-ole Park.

Match Play Golf Finals On Sunday

A new champion of the Maui Intermediate Match Play golf tournament will be crowned on Sunday when 10-handicapper Ralph Gima, the "robot" favorite, takes on stocky Naoki Tokuhisa, a 12-stroker, in the 36-hole finals over the wind-swept Maui Country Club course.

Gima's steadiness and steel nerves, which have carried him through 19 successive victories over opponents whom he spotted handicaps from one to 26 strokes, rates him as a heavy favorite over Tokuhisa. His toughest match was in the semi-finals when he edged out Akira Kobayashi, a 24 handicapper, 1 up. Over victims included Jim Carmichael Jr. (2 up), Robert Akemoto (2 and 1), Beasen Shimada (1 up), and Barney Nakatani (4 and 3).

Through his five matches, Tokuhisa was rated an underdog twice but survived with 1 up triumphs over Wilson Cannon and Norman Nakama to gain the finals berth. He also ousted Masao Sera (2 and 1), Roy Nakao (1 up), and S. Oda (1 up).

Defending champion Walter Minai was eliminated in the first round, paving the way for the crowning of a new titleholder. Both Gima and Tokuhisa will receive Emma Jewelry trophies with the winner also getting a set of woods. The runner-up will get a golf bag to go with his trophies.

Unser's Favored In 40-Lapper

Korman, Santos To Wage Battle For Point Leadership

Wilfred (Sonny) Tavares, who was in the thick of four thrilling races in the last stock car event held early this month, will be behind the wheel of Car No. 12 again seeking to bring the Club 12 entry its first main event win in the 40-lap feature of Sunday's program. The fifth of the season to be staged at the Kahului Fairgrounds by the Maui Racing Promoters.

Tavares, substituting for Danny Amuro, who underwent an appendectomy operation recently and will be absent from the racing scene for the second time.

Finishing runner-up to Honolulu's Jerry Unser twice in both the semi-main and feature races held on August 8, Tavares will be out to avenge those losses and satisfy the fans with a victory for No. 12, which they have long been expecting.

Unser, however, will be in the favorite's seat once more looking for his third main event triumph. Gene (Korky) Korman, Sammy Santos and Richard Okamura will also share the spotlight as the trio will be battling for the top position in the point standings.

Korman currently has a slim four-point edge over Santos with 226 points to 222 for the local driver. Okamura is tied with 214, followed by Bill Tavechi with 210 and Unser with 200.

A new list of admission prices is being introduced and a good spectator turnout is expected. Grandstand seats are now selling for $1.20.

DON'T COUNT THEM OUT . . . NOT YET

We see a new headline every day now "virtually assuring" the American and National league pennants to the Cleveland Indians and the New York Giants.

At this writing, the top two leaders in each circuit had 30 or more games to be played and there's nothing that can convince us at this stage that the race is "sewed up." Not while it's the Yanks and Dodgers who are doing the chasing.

Any close Major League fan would naturally be inclined to more or less "concede" the flag races after a glance at the present standings but a closer study of each team's win-loss percentage against the others and a study of the remaining month's slate keeps us murmuring, "Don't count them out yet!"

Here is how the race looked on paper Wednesday morning as this was being written. We can see why a fan remarked: "The Bums have a better chance of repeating than the Yanks."

Cleveland, in the middle of the week, had an 88-55 record for a percentage of .715 to New York's 84-60 for a .677 mark. That gave the Indians a four game edge in the win column and five less on the losing side, besides a four and one-half game lead.

The Giants, on the other hand, weren't far ahead of the Dodgers in percentage, .636 to .602, with a 77-44 record against 74-49 for Brooklyn, a difference of three wins and five losses.

The remaining schedule, however, definitely favors Casey Stengel's charges. They open a three-game series with the Indians next Tuesday, all of them at "home," and the American league fore-runners will wind up their 22-game slate for the season with a doubleheader at Cleveland's Municipal Stadium on September 12.

Senior Al Lopez' Tribesmen also play a three-game series in Chicago right after the Yankee Stadium invasion. Even if you're one who doesn't give a hoot about statistics, the fact that 18 of the Indians' 35 losses up to Wednesday morning were split between the Bronx Bombers and the Chisox is worth a thought.

New Yorkers are happy that the Yanks have only two more games with the Boston Red Sox, who beat them eight times, as did Cleveland, to play the "spoiler" role. The Bombers, nevertheless, have more wins than losses in series with the seven other clubs while the Indians are employing the famous Brooklyn method of piling up the percentage against the lower division teams.

The Bums and Giants have to play each other six more times. The first three-game series opens on September 3 at the Polo Grounds and the Dodgers will be "at home" for the crucial closing series, which starts on September 20.

There is nothing in the final four-week schedule which favors neither Brooklyn nor New York. Both teams had 31 games left. The Giants, who topped 1 out of 10 decisions over Philadelphia, will play the Phillies eight more times while the Dodgers, who have a 1-2-3 edge over Pittsburgh, have seven to go with the Pirates. Brooklyn also plays its chief nemesis, the Milwaukee Braves, in six more games.

The World Series is a long way off yet. Don't count them out.

Amfac Win Streak Ends; Fordmen Cop Fifth Win

Back-to-back homers by Taiyoo Aono and Joe (Bull) Akina and a rally-killing double play in the ninth inning highlighted the game which saw Aloha Restaurant square off Amfac, 12-11, to throw Division II of the CYO Softball League into a two-way tie for the lead on Tuesday.

While it was the victors' fourth straight triumph after an opening game defeat, the loss was Amfac's first of the season after successive wins in four previous contests and may prove costly for them as they have yet to play the tough Maui AJA team.

Aloha Restaurant tallied five times in the first inning and was never headed after that, although Amfac threatened serious in the seventh with five-run rally, which left them trailing by one run. The losers opened the final inning with the first two batters gaining life but a neat double play ruined their bid for a fifth consecutive win.

Valley Isle Motors held on to their lead by maintaining an unblemished record of five straight victories with a 3-2 triumph over Xavier Club. Shigeru Imai got good defensive mates and aided his own cause offensively with a homer and a double to score twice. The Fordmen were out of the game with Waiehae Dairy next Wednesday. A loss will throw them into a tie with Olinda Prison.

Wailuku Motors eliminated the Maui Farmers from a three-

Age Group Cage Loops Are Planned

To prevent some of the complications which have forced several youngsters from participating in basketball leagues coordinated by the Maui Recreation Council, the local cage committee's plan to install an age-group program to replace the weight-class bracketing will go into effect this fall, according to an announcement made by Junzo Sano, MRC executive secretary.

Past experiences have shown the youngsters who were unable to play with the boys of their ages due to failure to make the weight limit and were also kept from playing in the higher brackets on account of their youth.

The new plan, however, will keep the different leagues on an even age level and the growing youngsters will not be forced to undergo "sweating out" exercises and dieting to be within any weight limit.

Three different age-groups will replace the 85-100, and 120-pound brackets. The "small-fr" league will be boys 12-and-under and any youngster who was 11 or older old up to January 1, 1954, is eligible. The next group will be for those 14-and-under, and boys 15-and-over will be in the higher league.

Irving Maeda, chairman of the cage committee, is planning to hold a clinic for the youngsters as soon as the season rolls along in September.

Inter-Isle Little Loop Tilt Today

Little League baseball will make its final bow of the season during the Labor Day holidays when Honolulu's runner-up and the two top teams from the Big Island come to Maui for a four-game engagement with local nines at the Kahului Fairgrounds.

The Hawaii teams, which are stopping here enroute home from appearances on Oahu, will be Kau, West Hawaii and Big Island champs, and Hilo, champions of East Hawaii. Both played in the recent Territorial Little League tournament in Hilo.

The Philadelphia Athletics, which finished second to the Browns in Honolulu's PAL Midweek League, were to arrive on Friday and will play the Indians at the Fairgrounds today (Saturday) at 1:30 p.m. and the Giants tomorrow Sunday at 10 a.m. Ben Murakami is coach-manager of the team.

Playing on Monday at 4 p.m. against the Cardinals will be Kau nines, coached by Kichiro Watanabe and managed by Laurence Capelle, while Hilo will engage the Indians on Tuesday afternoon at Kahului on Tuesday. The team is coached by Isami Shadow Uwane.

The Cubs are enjoying a deserved rest after coping both the local and Territorial champions in Honolulu, and will be feebly by their manager, Ted Hotta, at a beach party on Sunday. More than 200 youthful supporters, parents, Maui Lions Club members, and the Valley Island Sweethearts were on their feet for the champs on their return from Hawaii Tuesday night.

The 1954 season cast a glittering finish to his two-year services ball career. This was his best season and he easily proved himself the most indispensable man on the Army line-up. Repeatedly his hitting told a winning story.

Andy captured Army's batting championship this year with a .358 clip (77 hits in 213 attempts), good enough to also win him the league's runner-up. He also led the loop with the most triples, eight, and batted in Army's most runs, 52, which was only two short of the circuit's best total.

In other departments, Andy knocked off the most doubles and homers among his teammates with 13 and six, which also stood a close third in the initial league tabulation.

Andy's big jump from a .278 hit rate last year to the most feared one this year has brought considerable talk in the service areas. Close observers feel Andy will be even more productive in a continued diamond pursuit.

Last year with the Schofield Redlanders, Andy, in 37 games, batted 144 times for a .278 mark. His 44 safeties included eight doubles, two triples and a single homer. He owned 22 RBIs.

Rebola Is Recaptured In Lahaina

County Jail Food Better Than Fare Of An Escopée

Alejandro Rebola was enjoying lodging back in the County jail Thursday morning after having had 15 days of liberty since he escaped from the jail piggery where he was working on Tuesday, August 10.

Rebola was placed under arrest at Kahana at 8:15 Thursday morning by Sgt. Eddie Wilson of the Wailuku District, bringing to a close an intensive manhunt by police officers of the Maui police department.

A good deal of the credit for Rebola's apprehension goes to Tadoo Uchiyama, a foreman for Baldwin Packers, Ltd., who spotted Rebola in a mango orchard, boarding a pineapple field about two miles above the government road at Kahana at 7:15 a. m.

Rebola, who had been picking mangoes, walked over to Uchiyama's truck and asked for a cigarette. Uchiyama asked Rebola why he did not give himself up.

Rebola replied that he was afraid he would be shot. Uchiyama explained to Rebola he had done nothing to cause him to be shot. After trying for half an hour to persuade the Filipino to give up, Rebola agreed to go with Uchiyama in his truck and surrender if he caught first talk to his housemate in the Honolulu Filipino Camp, Uchiyama consented.

As Uchiyama proceeded with Rebola towards Honolulu, they passed Hideo Kurose, also in a truck. Uchiyama told Kurose to inform the police who were seeking in the area.

Sgt. Wilson answered the call and made the arrest, assisted by Capt. Henry Long, Jr. of the Lahaina district. Police Kenneth Taguchi and Cirilo Figueroa.

Rebola was hungry when captured and said he had been living on mangoes, guava and sugar cane.

When he escaped from jail he had been awaiting sentence in the Second Circuit Court on a morals charge.

Crane Cites

Credit controls as a means of leveling off Maui prices through the establishment of a higher rate of collections of accounts, is a need that stimulates buying through becoming competitive with Honolulu's progressive retailers.

This self-appraisal, Crane said, is not destructive but given in the hope that "we can keep the Maui dollars at home by making it not only profitable for the customer, but also attractive and enjoyable."

There are many exceptions to the deficiencies, he said, and many stores are now adopting "still in the hush and hush" of merchandising and recognizing it and awaken before someone steals our shirt while we're asleep.

"How to overcome the defects?" he asked. "Clean up and keep clean, make your store exterior, windows a d entries attractive and bright, put the interior in order, make it easy to find merchandise and then see to it that you have year-round sales clinics for the clerks and sales people, drum up everyone, from the Boss down, that telephone essentials to business success, that a customer kept waiting on the line is a lost customer or at best, an angry one. Take advantage of the Hawaiian Telephone company clinics and let's conduct some of our own with the help of the Chamber of Commerce."

The small farmer needs help desperately, in irrigation, merchandising and a small farmer's market in a centralized location, say, New Town, is one answer to his dilemma, Crane said. He suggested the "Get Farming" being investigated for the rich but aged Kihikihi region "Galt Farrington to help Maui farmers to get the federal irrigation survey" to help Kula farmers, he suggested.

The chamber missed the Maui dollar entirely when it sat still and did not go to bat to try to get the federal air wing stationed on Maui, the speaker

Mrs. Mary Lee Attends HHDC Meet On Oahu

KAUNAKAKAI, MoLoKaI, August 28—Mrs. Mary Lee, Territorial vice-president of the Hawaii Home Demonstration Council, attended a conference being in Honolulu last week. In addition, Mrs. Lee also attended 4-H Ahaolelo and took part in a socio-drama which was held during a conference of the agricultural and home demonstration agents.

One of the topics discussed at the conference was to try to discover existing farm and home problems, to evaluate these problems, and to tentatively indicate possible solutions for the problems. During group discussions many problems were posed such as, "How Can We Improve Help to Farmers in Marketing Production?" "How Can We Reduce the Cost of Farm Living?" "How Can We Best Coordinate the Services of Existing Agencies to Promote Better Mental and Physical Health, Social and Economic Conditions, and Better Educational Facilities for Hawaii?"

Following the group discussions, recorders from each group met to try to evaluate the problems and determine which problems might be concentrated on for the balance of the session. How to increase farm and home income, how to better manage time and energy and improve family relationships in the home, and how to improve community relationships, seem to be the questions most often brought up.

Orchid Chat

By MASAMI YAMATO, Guest Contributor

Maui orchid growers have done considerable hybridizing during the past several years and the result of their work have produced some note worthy flowers. Among them, Den-drobium Helen Fukumura, a cross between Den. Lady Constantine and Dixon's strain of Den. Phalaenopsis, is a hybrid developed and registered with the Royal Horticultural Society of England by T. Fukumura of Kahului. Most of the see "lins that have bloomed are very dark lavender of good form.

Vanda Eisenhower (V. Sanderrana XV Ellen Noa), a yellow hybrid which won the "Best in the Show" award during the last Maui County Fair Orchid Show, was hybridized by Fusao Soryama. He was also successful in developing the pure white type of Dendrobium Phalaenopsis known in the islands as variety Mauna Kea.

Local orchid fanciers have been hesitant about hybridizing cattleya orchids. However, a notice of dissolution of co-partnership

Notice is hereby given that on the 30th day of June, 1954 the co-partnership heretofore existing between JOHN E. VENTURA and TOMIYA AGIRUGI, both of Kihui, Maui, doing business as JOHN E. VENTURA and TOMIYA AGIRUGI, a restaurant and general merchandise store at Kihui, Maui, was dissolved by mutual consent.

Notice is also hereby given that the said business will continue under the sole ownership of JOHN E. VENTURA from July 1, 1954 under the same name of JOHN E. VENTURA, United Way, Kihui, Maui, T. H. August 19, 1954.

JOHN E. VENTURA
TOMIYA AGIRUGI

There are several hybrids that are in the seedling stage and look promising. One of these is a cross between two outstanding whites, C. Bob Betts and C. Estelle alba made by Mr. Fukumura. The chromosome count of this batch of seedlings was made by the University of Hawaii and they were found to be triploids. Studies made of chromosomes in a cell indicate that triploids on the average produce better quality flowers than diploid plants.

Another white cattleya hybrid made by Kazuma Nishimura, C. Pearl Harbor X C. Ethel Bishop, is expected to produce superior whites. Both the darker type of orchids may be interested in C. Fabia X BC Hartland. The Cattleya Fa-his used by Shimamoto's Nursery is a very dark lavender almost maroon in color. Mr. Shimamoto's Vanda Honolulu crossed with V. Sanderrana is another hybrid which is expected to produce dark lavender.

Other interesting crosses are the bi-genic hybrid of Epidendrum Cinnabarinum and Leelia Flava developed by Shimamoto's Nursery and a self cross of Sanderrana alba made by Francis Takakura. He has also used his Sanderrana alba with his outstanding Vanda Bill Saiton with the hope that the full, round shape of both parents will be transmitted to the seedlings. Space does not permit the listing of numerous crosses being made by others but all indications are that Maui products are holding their own.

8 Punahou School To Enter 114th Year In September

After more than a century of distinctive service to the youth of Hawaii, Punahou School will open its 114th year in September. Pre-season registration indicates capacity enrollment from kindergarten through high school.

During the summer, demolition of Rice hall, campus landmark for close to half a century, progressed rapidly to make way for completion of the school's elementary units. Construction of twelve elementary classrooms is already well under way adjacent to the Rice hall site. Started shortly before school closed in June, the new units mark the second round of building in Punahou's over-all elementary plan. The new buildings are going up on the location of old Dole hall, razed two years ago. Each of the twelve new classrooms will have an attached lanai, giving the room an over-all size of more than 1000 square feet.

Well-known Honolulu Architect Vladimir Ossipoff designed the entire Punahou elementary school from the original construction of the Rice building in 1950 to the final increment, still on the drawing boards. Mr. Ossipoff continued the basic design used in the Winne-Units. A few details have been altered to increase efficiency, including addition of private lavatories to rooms planned for primary-level youngsters.

Current plans call for continuation of the new elementary units on the Rice hall site in the near future. The complete design includes administrative facilities, an outdoor auditorium, as well as additional classrooms.

In its historic setting by Punahou's Lily Pond, Rice hall has carried the story of Punahou within its gabled frame since its completion in 1907. The building's first tenants were members of the boys' boarding department. Following the discontinuation of the boarding department, a succession of grades from Junior Academy to kindergarten used the rambling structure.

When World War II hit the Territory, Rice hall reverted to its original role of dormitory, providing living quarters for the Army Engineers.

Following the school's return to its campus in 1945, Punahou's post-war growth swept over Rice hall, underscoring its inadequacy for modern educational needs. The antiquated classrooms and outmoded design were out of step with today's teaching demands.

With completion of the entire elementary school, Punahou will provide its young students with one of the outstanding educational plants in the country.

COMMERCIAL SCHOOL HEAD — J. Edwin Whitlow (above), is president of the Honolulu Business College, one of the oldest and largest business schools in the Territory.

'How To Get A Job' Taught To HBC Students

"Good training alone is not enough to land the job," says Elwood George, job placement director at Honolulu Business College. "The applicant must know how to make his application; how to approach the employer; what to say and how to conduct himself during the interview. In short, he must know how to put his best foot forward."

Students at Honolulu Business College learn how to apply for a job through their job training course. The course is presented, in part, by the use of highly entertaining flip charts which illustrate, among other things, how to fill out the application blank; what to say during the job interview; what to wear, and how to gain the employer's favorable consideration.

One of the most valuable sessions of the course is the practice interview. The setting and atmosphere of a business office are created in the classroom, and Mr. George, taking the part of the employer, interviews each student applicant for the "job."

As a result of this training, the Honolulu Business College graduates go to their real interview for employment with confidence; he makes a favorable impression on the employer, and he gets the job.

Said one girl, an HBC graduate now employed as a secretary in a Honolulu office: "There were 43 applicants for my position, but I got the job."

Immigrating climate at Waimea is well adapted for parents and students interested in the school. Maui residents can consult with Mrs. James Tabor at present visiting her mother, Mrs. Stanley Elmore at Kula. Mrs. Tabor spent a month at Kamuela this summer and is well informed about the school.

35 Maui HBC Grads Given Jobs

There is a big demand by employers for the services of graduate students of Honolulu Business College. Last year 483 graduates of the school were placed in office positions, thirty-five of whom were from Maui. Employers want these graduates because they know the young people have received a well rounded course of business training which has prepared them to take positions of responsibility and trust in the business office.

Said one Honolulu business man, "I employed the applicant from Honolulu Business College because he was not only thoroughly schooled in the basic skills required for the job, but he had been given broad training in general business practices. Business students who have this well-rounded training are valuable in the business office, and they make rapid advancement in their jobs."

Later my boss told me it was because I was poised during the interview and said the right things."

Honolulu Business College is one of the oldest business schools in the Territory. In its thirty-seven years of operation it has prepared thousands of Hawaii's young people for business and sent them into thousands of good paying jobs.

It is the largest business school in the Territory. It offers students a wide variety of courses and complete business training in each of their chosen fields.

Because of the wide selection of courses, each student receives individual training and guidance from the time he enrolls in school until he has graduated and obtained a job. Even after students are out of school and employed they are invited to call on the school director, John C. Chape, or any of the teachers or staff for help or advice.

To help each student select the business field to which he or she is most suited, the school employs a trained psychologist whose full-time job is administering aptitude tests, and guiding and counseling the young people.

To enable students to develop poise, personality, character, and all the characteristics employers want in their employees, the school has included the Dale Carnegie course in effective speaking and human

Of great benefit to the business student is the job training course conducted by Elwood George, job placement director at Honolulu Business College. In this course the student learns how to make application for a job; what to say to the employer during an interview; what to wear, and how to conduct himself.

The school is proud of its many graduates, now successful business men and women in our islands and throughout the mainland. The number of calls that come in daily from employers asking for HBC trained employees is a source of satisfaction. As it goes into its thirty-eighth year of operation, Honolulu Business College will continue to give its students the best, most up-to-date, all around business training available.

have signified their intention of returning as sophomores. In addition, about seventeen applications have been received from prospective new students. This should be increased by several others who will not apply before registration. This should mean a student body of between 50 and 60 students. Forty-five students were in attendance last year.

New students, who are in need of financial assistance should apply to Dr. K. C. Leeb, president. It may be possible to secure some assistance for them. This will be, if available, in addition to the regular work program of four hours per week for day students and eight hours per week for residents.

Holy Innocents Church Notes

By ETHEL T. EVANS
"It was glad when they said into me, We will go into the house of the Lord." Psalm 122:1
Service next Sunday will be at the following hours: 7:00 a.m., Holy Communion; 9:00 a.m., Morning Prayer. Beginning on Sunday, Sept. 12, the late service will be changed to 10:00 a.m. instead of the present hour of 9:00 a.m. Sunday School, which also begins on that day at 8:45 a.m., necessitates the change. The early service remains at 7:00 a.m.

The Vicar and his wife entertained the members of the Senior Young People's Fellowship at supper last week Thursday evening, honoring those members who will be leaving shortly for schools on the mainland and in Honolulu. A great many of the members will be keenly felt, for they have been faithful and active in their service to the organization and to the church.

Miss Diane Robertson left last Friday on the yacht "The Jessica" for Honolulu. She plans to leave this Friday for Seattle, Washington, where she will live with her mother, while attending high school.

The Misses Vivian and Carolyn Troy left Tuesday with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. William E. Troy for Molokai, where they will spend one night with the Troy's daughter, Helen. (Mrs. Raymond von Tempy) and then they go on to Honolulu, where Vivian and Carolyn will leave on the same plane for the mainland, as Diane Robertson takes Friday morning.

After visiting relatives on the West Coast the Troy girls will attend Wasatch Academy in Mt. Pleasant, Utah, to finish their high school education. Also leaving soon for schools in Honolulu will be Wesley Ng, Keesa Leong, Edwin Lindsey, Teddy Johnson, Tulsa and Tau and Jimmy Greig, Clifford Eberly and Noeau Guerreiro. We will miss all these young people and look forward to their return next summer.

A very delightful supper was served to the West Maui Lion's Club last Tuesday evening by the Women's Guild. It was gratifying to hear so many of our women participate in the preparation and serving. We do want to thank all those who had a part in making the supper such a good one.

Mrs. A. S. Burns leaves this weekend for Honolulu, where she will greet her daughter, Jo-Ann and husband, Mr. and Mrs. William W. Eastburn, of Berkeley, California, who arrive from the mainland Saturday morning. The young couple will spend their two weeks vacation visiting in Honolulu. The Senior Choir will go back to work on Sunday, September 5. Their first practice will be on Thursday, Sept. 2 at 7:00 p.m. The Vicar requests that all members make every effort to be at the practice, so that the choir will be well organized from the start. Any other person who would be interested in joining the choir will be notified by next week.

The date for the church bazaar has been tentatively set for October 2. This date will be verified by next week. The next regular Women's Guild meeting will be on Monday, August 30, at 7:00 p.m. in the parish hall. The members are asked to bring in any completed sewing articles, as well as any other items they have ready for the bazaar.

The Reverend Paul R. Savanah, Rector of St. Peter's Episcopal Church in Honolulu, was a guest of the Vicar and his wife earlier this week. He was returning from a visit on the island of Hawaii, and stopped off on Maui for a few days before continuing on to Honolulu.

We welcome Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Lee into the fellowship of the church. It was good to have them with us in church for the first time last Sunday. Mr. Lee is a teacher at Lahainaluna School.

As island-wide laymen's conference is being planned for by the three Episcopal Churches on Maui, it will be held at the Church of the Good Shepherd tentatively on Saturday, Sept. 18. There will be speakers from Honolulu who will have as their theme, the Every Member Canvass.

We were glad to have Mrs. Elizabeth Wood, one with us in church last Sunday. She hails from Kohala, Hawaii, where she is a member of the St. Augustine's Episcopal Church. She was in Lahaina visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Buchanan.

The Intermediate Young People's Fellowship enjoyed a picnic at Kapululu Beach last Monday. They were joined by several other young people of the church.

The Vicar was delighted to have been invited to the chicken hekkia party sponsored by the West Maui Athletic Association. It was given by the "Christ Jesus" is the Lesson. Sermon subject for August 29. Golden Text: "The law was given by Moses, but grace and truth came by Jesus Christ." (John 1:17)

Sermon: Passages from the Bible (King James Version) include: "And Jesus walked in the temple in Solomon's porch. Then came the Jews around about him, and said unto him, How long dost thou make us to doubt? If thou be the Christ, tell us plainly. Jesus answered them, I told you, and ye believe not: the works that I do in my Father's name, they bear witness of me. My sheep hear of me, and I know them, and they follow me: And I give unto them eternal life; and they shall never perish, neither shall any man pluck them out of my hand. I and my Father are one." (John 10: 23-25, 27, 28, 30)

Correlative passages from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy. "Jesus of Nazareth taught and demonstrated man's oneness with the Father, and for this we owe him endless homage. The Christ was the Spirit which Jesus implied in his own statements: 'I am the way, the truth, and the life.' I and my Father are one. 'This Christ, or divinity of the man Jesus, was his divine nature, the godliness which animated him. Our Master taught no more theory, doctrine, or belief. It was the divine Principle of all real being which he taught and practiced.'" (p. 18-3-5, p. 26:10-14, 28, 30)

spade a spade. Thomas K. Hitch, director of Research for the Hawaii Employers and former economic advisor to the President of the United States was the guest speaker at the Thursday noon-day luncheon attended by 160 at the Lani Wai. Mr. Hitch gave a detailed down-to-earth talk on "Hawaii's Economic Outlook", telling of how Hawaii's economy has fallen and unemployment increased in the last two years. He advised against the government trying to build up economy in any one community, feeling it is the job of individual and private business enterprise to take up the slack. This he said was not an insurmountable obstacle to be overcome in Hawaii. The luncheon featured Maui menu of beef soup, mahimahi, Irish potatoes and corn on the cob from Kula; salad of Keanae papaya, Waipio bananas, and haiku pineapple; Kihai watermelon for dessert, Hana passion fruit for a beverage. Lively discussions featured the four four-hour seminars held Thursday afternoon at Baldwin high. Co-moderators for the "Opportunities for Expanding Hawaii's Visitor Industry" were Lyle C. Gusslander, president of Island Holidays, Ltd. and William J. Mullahy, chairman of the tourist industry trade committee, Honolulu

HEADMASTER — James Monroe Taylor II (above), arrived in the islands on August 7 from Wallingford, Connecticut, to assume his new duties as headmaster of the Hawaii Episcopal Academy, Kamuela, Hawaii. Since 1946, Mr. Taylor has been a master and assistant headmaster at the Choate School, Wallingford. He is a graduate of the Shattuck Episcopal Military School, Fairbault, Minnesota, and Amherst College, Amherst, Massachusetts. In 1935 he was elected to the faculty of Choate School, where he served until 1941, when he entered the Control Division of the Army Service Forces, during World War II, where he held the rank of Major.

Speaker At Maui Rotary

Miss Alma Kai-ma, R.F. (Rotary Fellow) talking to the Rotary Club of Maui last Wednesday at the Puunene Club for the first time since returning from her one year scholarship in England, described her experience "as an opportunity which comes to a person only once in a lifetime." "I hope somehow I achieved the purpose of extending goodwill and understanding to our friends across the sea," the first Rotary Fellow from Maui told her sponsors and benefactors. Speaking of Anglo-American relationships, Miss Kai-ma said the foremost opinion of the British towards Americans was that America is such a young and immature nation and therefore it is a great pity with America's lack of knowledge, to be such a dominant and great nation. "This is our greatest problem in convincing Europeans that we are capable of assuming World leadership," Miss Kai-ma said. Miss Kai-ma visited in many English homes during her year as a student at St. Mary's College at Durlin University. She told several interesting stories about her introduction to the lack of plumbing facilities in those homes, her first experience of going to bed with hot water bottles, etc. to the damp, cold weather and the lack of adequate heating facilities. "My English friends had one advantage and that was that they never lacked for a topic of conversation... they could always talk about their weather," Miss Kai-ma recalled. THEY HUNG JOHNNY WILSON and Del Metzger down at ILWU Memorial Hall in Honolulu last week. . . now, don't get too excited or anything like that, they didn't hang 'em in the flesh, only in oil. . . no, they didn't boil 'em in oil, just hung 'em. . . shucks, you know what I mean.

What I'm trying to say is somebody painted portraits of the two estimable champions of the left and appropriately they were hung in ILWU Memorial Hall which they both have served so well.

Now, this is America, not Russia, so if somebody wants to hang somebody else's portrait in a hall, that's his business and nobody else's. . . I'm gonna say right here and now, I see nothing wrong in hanging the Wilson and Metzger down in the ILWU Hall if the ILWU wants them there, and Johnny and his white-haired old don't care.

I do, however, like all other loyal Americans, take resentment at the remarks made by the two hangers.

Johnny Wilson said "I took my hat off to Jack Hall." . . . Jack is still under conviction for conspiring to overthrow the United States and is under five years jail sentence which, until it is reversed or revoked or something else legal happens to change the situation, makes Jack Hall a felon in the eyes of the law and a man subject to loss of citizenship if the conviction sticks.

HI JIMMY
Seeing as how Johnny Wilson took an oath, when he went off

GET THE JOB

An easy way to grease panther and tie at one end with a cake griddle—crumple a few strips. Dip into shortening as paper towels together, cover needed. This also prevents with cheese cloth and then get burned fingers.

on another two years in the Number One rooms at Honolulu Hale and Malahie Hospital, to uphold the Constitution of the United States and such, how does Stanford's illustrious graduate reconcile taking off his hat to a man convicted of conspiring against the government the Mayor of Honolulu is sworn to protect and respect?

Judging by this score, we can expect Johnny Wilson to volunteer to act as host and master of ceremonies at the luncheon in honor of Palakiko and Majors when the two young boarders at OP walk through the swinging iron gate on parole or pardon for "good behavior." . . . We can expect it most any day now, eh? . . . Wonder who will be among the other "honored guests"? Guess who? Politics makes no nevers and strange bed companions in cases like this, no?

And as if Johnny's shocking hat doffing wasn't enough, his twin in age and political extremities came forth with another dilly. "I'd rather have my portrait hanging in ILWU Memorial Hall than the White House," said Mister Metzger, just like that. . . and then tossed in Washington Place, the what for, I don't know.

Now, Del, may I ask a question, seeing as how you have preferences in the matter of where you get hung. . . portraiture speaking, that is. . . would you prefer to get hung in the Kremlin to the White House, too? Or, would you rather have your smiling countenance and silvery white mane adorning the walls of H. Bridges' office than the workshop of Dwight Eisenhower, or perhaps J. Edgar Hoover, or even, maybe, in the United States Supreme Court library?

Mister Metzger has been around long enough and sat upon a high court of the United States enough years to know the White House is a symbol to all Americans and when he said he'd rather have his mug hung some other place, no matter where, to the White House, he was trading all over a sacred heritage of all Americans.

If the special election didn't cook Mister Metzger's pool, he sure fried it till it burned all by itself with his expression of preferences at the services marking the hanging of Johnny Wilson and Del Metzger.

God Bless America. . . and protect her against the thoughtlessness of so many of her loyal sons, Aloha!

Points For Girls Seeking Secretarial Work Outlined

How is the model secretary expected to conduct herself in an office? What personal traits do employers look for when employing a secretary?

There are the questions most frequently asked by girls who are completing their training at Honolulu Business College and are looking ahead to their first office job.

CHRAPE

John Chrape, HBC director, "we consulted Honolulu employers." Two hundred and fifty men and women, representing various types of business, were asked, "What traits in your opinion, are the most important personal traits or characteristics for the secretary to possess?" Following is a list of the seven most frequently mentioned by the employers questioned:

1. She should show respect for her employer and co-workers by being courteous and applying good office etiquette. 2. She should be genuinely interested in the business of the company that employs her; and she should be interested and enthusiastic about the particular job she is doing, no matter how monotonous. ("Much of a secretary's work is monotonous," one employer warned.) 3. She should be cooperative.

She should think of herself as being a member of a team and work with co-employees. To win; 4. She should be loyal to the boss and co-workers. No office gossip or spilling of business confidences. 5. She should exercise self-discipline, but the door on her personal problems while on the job; disregard her private joys or sorrows, regard her work efficiently and pleasantly, her motto—"Business as Usual." 6. She must be

PRAYER FOR THE DAY

O God, give us the serenity to accept what cannot be changed; courage to change what can be changed; and the wisdom to know one from the other.—Richard Niebuhr.

A SOUND CHOICE

Selection of Thomas B. Vance for the position of superintendent of Memorial Hospital and administrator of the County medical system should meet with the wholehearted approval of the people of the tri-Isles.

Mr. Vance comes to his new calling with nearly a quarter of a century spent in an administrative and executive capacity, and, further, with a reputation as a capable, honest and intelligent public official noted for his courtesy and good public manners . . . something that is not always found in government officers in high places.

As high school principal, Tom Vance built a new school from the ground up at Farrington, today, one of Honolulu's leading secondary institutions. In the office of director of institutions, he carried forward a broad program of modernization and improvement in all of the institutions under his jurisdiction, again with constructive success.

It has been said that an "outsider" was a necessity in order to "clean house" at Memorial. While Tom Vance is no "outsider" from the standpoint of not knowing Maui, he does come to his job completely apart and removed from any of the factions and party issues that have retarded the administration of the big hospital since its inception. He can study the situation from an impartial viewpoint and his decisions will not be influenced by any of the manifold causes of dissension that have been rampant at the institution.

Capable as he is, Mr. Vance's lot in the early stages of his administration will not be an easy one and there will be many unpleasant moments to confront him. Consequently, it is necessary that he have the united support of all those in the community whose desire it is to bring Memorial up to national hospital standards.

Mr. Vance's appointment was in no way a political one. It was made on merit and he is in no one's debt. This is fair warning to the meddlers at the County Building to keep hands off.

We have had enough political conniving and beneath the tealeading by too many of the County Building gang. From here on in, Memorial must remain out of the hands of the politicians and its administration must be carried out without taint of political influences.

We welcome Tom Vance to Maui.

He will be an able administrator.

He will likewise be a valuable addition to the civic community and cultural life of the tri-Isles.

VIOLATING LAW AND THE RULES OF DECENCY

Without discussing the merits of the controversy between the ILWU and Maui Soda and Ice Works, The Maui News would like to point out just one little point to Mr. Yagi and his staff.

In all the techniques involved in the conduct of a strike, there is no place for a boycott.

First, the laws of the United States specifically prohibit the advocacy or staging of a boycott against a struck company.

Second, the very essence of American sportsmanship frowns upon such conduct.

When the ILWU called a strike against the company, it was acting within its rights as it saw them.

When the union dispatched a letter to merchants and other customers of Maui Soda asking them not to do business with the company, it was violating United States law and displaying flagrantly bad manners.

The company cannot expect to win friends by such conduct.

PRACTICAL INTERNATIONAL SERVICE

The "hands across the Pacific" project that will be inaugurated at Lahaina this year with the admission of six adult students from the United States Trust Territory is a venture in Pacific relations that will go far toward the establishment and cultivation of understanding and goodwill among the peoples of our own area.

These students in agriculture and animal husbandry will have two or more years of study at Lahaina when they will be assimilated, not only into Luna campus affairs, but in the Sunset community and, we hope the entire island of Maui.

Here they will learn American ways and customs and become acquainted with our people of many racial strains. They will carry back with them, not only the knowledge that will enable them to teach in their own schools, but also to sow the seeds of understanding that will bring these two Pacific areas into closer relationship. The end result will be bonds that will eliminate intolerances and prejudices and withstand the mighty strains that will go far toward the establishment and cultivation of understanding and goodwill among the peoples of our own area.

The Department of Public Instruction and particularly the Maui section and Lahaina area to be congratulated for embarking upon this major undertaking in international service.

TRAINING GROUND FOR SPORTSMEN

It is always nice to wind up an athletic season with a championship and particularly is this so when the title happens to encompass the entire Territory of Hawaii.

So, it will with all the steps that we congratulate Maui's Little League champs who added Territorial champions to their list of 1954 achievements.

The winning of the all-Hawaii title in Hilo, however, was not the major achievement of the season. The youngsters on the champions' Cubs, as well as the hundreds of others who participated in the regular play, have learned lessons in sportsmanship that will stand them in good stead all their lives; they have learned to take care of themselves in the tight places, and they have learned to win gracefully and lose like gentlemen.

This Little League is a great factor in the broad program of juvenile training. In its own sphere, it is as important as the classroom and it can have even greater influence upon the lives of the lads who are fortunate enough to have a part in its activities.

We are proud of the champs, but we're even prouder of all the teams, coaches, officials and players who made the 1954 season such an outstanding success in the cultivation of Maui's youth.

About THINGS and PEOPLE

by Edna E. Jenkins

GOOD MORNING: Another white dawn, but have you noticed the evenings—lingering sunsets and moonlight battling for the paint job on the white fluffy clouds!

We do have menhens on Maui—that's for sure. Formerly, never a glimpse of the beautiful luo stream could you see when you went up into the valley. Now a magic hand has cut wide swathes in bushes and trees, making great windows in the former green walls so we can look down to the churning waters below. Across the bridge, a path, cleared of undergrowth, with easy steps leads upwards toward the island with a magnificent view of the needle, stream and valley, ending at the far-distant ocean. As I said before, I know the menhens did it for I called the Parks Board, County and Highway road departments and County Engineers office. No one will take the credit. So orchids to the unknown workers who have done such a grand job for us and our visitors.

Now this is a crab. For shame on those who serve that much appreciated fresh pineapple at the waterfall in luo and leave the peels where they fall. Saturday, flies and bugs were swarming and even paper towels were sticking to the plants, making a most unsightly mess.

Also, the beautiful parking spot was festooned with kleenex, paper cups and picnic trash. Outdoor Circle how about a couple of Litterbug rubbish cans in that beauty spot? Can't help thinking that Maui is really proud of luo and will pick up the rubbish if there is a place to put it.

Another thing, saw a carload of youngsters busy washing the family car from a big clothes tub which they kept filling with water. That is one way to save the 25¢ per thousand, but how about the muddy goo we had to step around? Guess the higher the rates the less the water that runs thru the meters, but the family car must be washed—even in luo!

Jammed was Paia Congregational hall last Monday night when the Ladies Aid held a silver tea, fashion show and flower exhibit. Heard the fashion show was excellent with girls from the upper grammar grades modeling dresses they made themselves in Yoshiko Maeda's sewing classes. However, later as I was, I did see the flower show. Learned about fixing a couple of blooms in driftwood, bare branches or dried leaves into a harmonious whole. Tall, narrow vases with traditional arrangements or the modern flats were used, following the Ohara school of flower arrangement as taught by Florence Chinen.

Worth seeing was the T. Abe exhibit of Japanese antiques. There were samurai swords on a reindeer horn display rack, old bronze pieces, porcelains, a 15th century dragon scroll and a porcelain bowl over 500 years old.

After 52 years on Maui, 31 years in the same house, Louise and Ernest Wickes are leaving. Ernest retired this month from the KRR after 38 years of service and many friends have to see them go. An aloha party was given for retirement, given by the KRR employees. First cocktails at the Chas. H. Burnett home and then they all went on to the beautiful decorated Maui Country Club for dinner. Over 100 fellow workers and wives attended. A clever emcee was Lawrence Wong. There were short talks by Manager Burnett and Jack Singmaster. A handsomely engraved silver platter was presented. Eventually the Wickes will leave Maui for a new home in the Bay area. We will be sorry to lose such good citizens and friends as Louise and Ernest Wickes.

THE UNITED STATES POLL

GOP Fights Commies In Gov't Better Than Demos

PRINCETON, New Jersey—Which political party—the Republican or the Democratic—do Americans favor in the job of keeping Communists out of the government and handling subversive elements?

Results of a nationwide survey just completed show that the weight of opinion across the U. S. is that the Republican Party can do a better job.

Two out of every five of all those questioned say that the Republican Party can do a better job of keeping Communists out of the government and handling subversive elements in the country.

One in four says the Democrats can do better.

In other words, among those with opinions on the matter, the number who believe that the Republican Party can do a better job of keeping Communists out of the government and handling subversive elements outnumber by a margin of about 9 to 5 those who think the Democrats can do better.

When United States Poll staff reporters asked a representative cross-section of the nation's voters:

"As you feel today, which political party—the Republican or the Democratic—can do a better job of keeping Communists out of the government and handling subversive elements in the nation?"

The results:

NATIONWIDE

Republican 40%

Democratic 16%

No difference 16%

No opinion 18%

Highlight of today's survey findings is that the weight of sentiment among the country's independent voters by a 4 to 1 margin believes that the GOP can do a better job of keeping Communists out of the government and handling subversive elements.

INDEPENDENT VOTERS ONLY, NATIONWIDE

Republican 40%

Democratic 10%

No difference 22%

No opinion 18%

Among GOP voters, 7 out of every 10 are the opinion that the Republican Party can do a better job of keeping Communists out of the Federal government and handling subversive elements.

Only 1 in every 20 Republican voters thinks the Democrats can do better.

REPUBLICAN VOTERS ONLY, NATIONWIDE

Republican 70%

Democratic 5%

No difference 14%

No opinion 11%

The weight of sentiment among Democratic voters, on the other hand, by a 3 to 1 margin is that their own political party can do a better job.

DEMOCRATIC VOTERS ONLY, NATIONWIDE

Republican 16%

Democratic 58%

No difference 18%

No opinion 18%

Results of a recent survey show that keeping Communists out of the government and handling subversive elements is regarded as one of the top four issues that voters would like to hear discussed in the coming Congressional election campaign. This is the first of a series of analysis of key election issues. Watch for them in this newspaper.

I Remember...

By MARY ELPETH FLEMING

IN A LONELY GRAVEYARD somewhere in the north of Scotland, the traveler by closely examining a moss-grown tombstone, may decipher this weird epitaph:

"Best be the man leaves me alone;
But cursed be who moves my bones"

Thus a rugged individualist of bygone years, still speaks to posterity, and expresses his determination that his earthly remains shall not be desecrated or disturbed.

The pyramids of Egypt were monuments erected by sovereigns over their own tombs, for the purpose of immortalizing themselves. From the sarcophagi, mummies and various tangible relics, archaeologists have learned a great deal about a civilization that no longer exists.

In an article recently published in the Honolulu Advertiser, Mr. Coll, head of a modern "pyramid builder," Diego Rivera, a Mexican, who is now erecting a magnificent structure on modified pyramid style. When finished, says Mr. Coll, it is to be filled with Rivera's "incomparable collection of pre-quechua sculpture" and perhaps even his sarcophagus will be placed there. Mr. Coll describes the place as one in which, a thousand years from now, archaeologists may revel in antiquities dating back to the twentieth century.

The Polynesians believed that departed spirits were endowed with magical powers. The bones of human beings—especially the skulls—were considered sacred, and were hidden in caves or in heiaus (places of worship) which were usually enclosed by stone walls. One of the early missionaries thus tells of a visit to the old heiau at Hoonanea: "The dead bodies of the chiefs were placed around the room in a sitting position, the unsightly skeletons mostly concealed in folds of tapa or rich silk. The blood-stained walls were there, where human victims had been immolated to idol gods. Fragments of sacrifices were strewn about."

Hearing rumors of a burial cave in Maliko, two young men (teachers) decided to look for it. Seeing an opening in the side of a cliff, one of the men let the other down by a rope to investigate. There was a cave—sure enough—but the opening was so small, and the interior looked so dark, that the explorer failed to return until day bringing a candle. He, however, received an anonymous letter warning him that his next trip to the cave would probably be his last.

Frank Green, the son of Rev. Jonathan Green, told a long walk he took—up the slopes of Haleakala—in company with a young Hawaiian who had offered to show him a burial cave in a gulch above the timber line. Leaving his companion at the head of the gulch, the Hawaiian proceeded alone. He soon returned to report that the akua would not allow him to bring a haole in the sacred place. That, too, was final.

Boys digging in their school garden on the site of an old cemetery once unearthed many human bones, including several skulls which caused such excitement. The teacher asked some of the young men of the neighborhood to help him to gather the bones and inter them. The men promised to help—but none of them arrived at the hour set for the work. One of the men said, "I don't say that I believe in ghosts, but there are some things I can't understand." Later, however, all the men helped to gather the bones, and to place them, reverently, in a common grave in the local cemetery.

To The President
The enclosed letter to President Eisenhower is to let you know how some of us at least feel about the matter, and may be published in The Maui News.

While back I also sent two of our editorials on Senator Knowland.

Just to let you know there are a few of us anyway who really appreciate you and your editorials.

The White House
Washington, D. C.

"Dear Mr. President:

"Enclosed please find an editorial from The Maui News of Saturday, August 21st.

All of the people I know and to whom I have talked are seriously provoked by this act of Governor King, which we believe to be one of two things—completely debased politics, or an irresponsible act and a completely flagrant violation of the rights of the people of Hawaii UNDER THE LAW.

"If it is in your power to do so, you really should consider recalling your appointment of Governor King and replacing him with a man who will abide by and uphold the laws of this territory.

"Very truly yours,
"Mrs. ELIZABETH WALTON"

SACRAMENTO HAS CHINESE LIONS CLUB.—The other day we received some tear sheets from Portland, Ore. and Sacramento, Calif. papers showing two column cuts, with captions about "Mayor" or County Chairman Eddie Tam. In Sacramento Eddie Tam is first lady, Lily Tam were guests of honor at both the Port Stutter and the Capital City Lions Clubs. The Capital City club is the California capital city's newest and has an all Chinese membership and meets at the Hong Kong Lum Restaurant. The Tam's were greeted by Mayor W. A. Hicks and were guests at the home of the Harold Kohns, whom the Tams had entertained on Maui.

Up in Portland, the Rose City, Chairman Tam, who gives out money and keys to the island to prominent visitors, received the key to the City of Portland from Mayor Fred L. Peterson. In Portland the Tams, together with Mr. and Mrs. George Lum of Honolulu, were the guests of Byron Wolverton, wealthy apartment house owner, who has also been a guest of the Tams on the Valley Isle. The party then journey to Vancouver, B.C., returning to Portland where Wolverton drove the Tams to Sacramento and then to San Francisco.

The newspaper photos and stories in the Portland and Sacramento papers were really excellent publicity for Maui and the type that will help bring plenty of West Coast visitors to the Valley Isle.

THE OUTSTANDING PROJECT OF ANY SERVICE CLUB—The Maui Scene was privileged to sit in Wednesday on the interesting talk of Mrs. Alma Kaama, Lahaina faculty member at the Rotary Club of Maui luncheon. It was her first talk here after having completed a year of study at Durham University in England, a Rotary and an outstanding member of the Maui Rotary Club. After listening to Miss Kaama's talk, while her proud mother and dad and two other sisters listened in, we are more convinced than ever that the finest project of any of the services clubs is Rotary International's Fellowship Foundation, especially during these trouble times when all of us are trying to develop understanding between the peoples of all nations.

As Miss Kaama told the Rotarians, "When I think of England today, it is not just something I have read in books, or its buildings and customs, but of the many dear friends I made wherever I went and especially at Durham University."

Members of the Maui Rotary Club, and Valley Islanders in general, can feel proud of its representative in an exchange of students throughout the world. She has had an outstanding one. Congratulations to the great work started in pushing the Rotary Fellowship by the late Dave Rattry, when he was Rotary president in Honolulu and now carried on by Past District Governor Ez Crane.

LAST CALL FOR ENROLLMENT AT MAUNALOHA CC—Students of the Maui Community College, some of the young ones are still debating as to where to go. All of which reminds us, that if one is interested in freshman or sophomore college work, but at home and save considerable money in the expense of getting a college education, and wants the benefit of a trained faculty who can give individual attention to their students, here are the last days of time to register for the Fall term of Maunaloa Community College at Sunnyside. Its President, Dr. K. Leobrich, will give you a warm personal welcome the likes of which you will not find at other colleges or universities. We say "Buy at Home," Let's "Educate at Home." We have the college and the faculty.

HUI AHINAHINA MEMBERS MEET TONIGHT—Hui Ahinahina (Silverstars Club) will hold its annual meeting, election of officers and dinner tonight (Saturday) at the Haleakala Community Center. Visitors are welcome. Guest speaker will be George Armitage, former executive secretary of the pre-war Hawaii Tourist Bureau, and founder of the Hui Ahinahina for the purpose of raising funds for the maintenance of a commemorative Silverstars certificate to visitors to Haleakala Section, Hawaii National Park, to raise funds to put in public improvements at Haleakala not provided by National Park funds. Hui Ahinahina contributed the funds which enabled Artist Paul Rockwood to complete the painting of Maui snaring the sun now hanging in the crater observatory.

KEKO, apparently, believes that foresight is better than hindsight. This Fox terrier, a lady who knows her own mind, spent several years in a Maui home with a German Shepherd male who permitted her to, acutely, lead him around by the collar. She was not a very good dog, but she was controllable. When he began contemplating attack upon calves in a nearby pasture, a decision had to be made. People who lived in enclosed acres took him and, because he was beloved, a sorrowful family watched him go.

Keko was sad, too. And, one day, when her mistress brought a new puppy, she turned and said, "The new one, Heidi, was a Boxer. She was from the Hawaiian Humane Society, in Honolulu. There she had been because her owners moved to small quarters where there was no room for so large a dog. They were overjoyed that Heidi had found kindness and affection, freedom to roam in a large yard on Haleakala. But all of this past history did not influence Keko. She rebuffed Heidi and, afterward, the two gave one another friendly glances and, upon occasion, fought. The Boxer had the advantage.

"I give up," the mistress said, one morning, "and, since I was a Boxer, I'll find a proper home for Keko."

She did find such a home, in Paia.

After another siege of quarrels, both dogs were in the family living room. "I'm taking Keko to Paia, tomorrow." This information was voiced for general family information.

Keko pondered for a while. What she knew or what she sensed, is not in secret. What she DID proved her a woman of decision. She walked across the room to Heidi who lay in her blanket bed. She sniffed Heidi's snub Boxer nose, lay down close beside her and, together, they slept the night.

Keko's logic did not lead her to Paia. She still lives, where she has always lived, on Haleakala. And she and Heidi have left their fights behind them.
