Seeks Letters By Political Foe To Federal Officials

If he ever gets possession of copies of certain letters written about him, Secretary of Hawaii Frank G. Serrao has told friends, he will sue the writer or writers for $100,000, so violently does he object to the smear tactics used by those who opposed his appointment to his present position.

While Serrao will make no statement, the RECORD has learned from authoritative sources that the Secretary is still making efforts to secure copies of the letters, which were sent to Washington. He is reported to have made arrangements here with one of the recent official visitors from Washington to have copies of the allegedly libelous letters sent to him.

In one of the letters, report has it, the writer confused Mr. Serrao's name with that of another man, also a native of the Big Is- (more on page 23)

Rice's HAC Maneuvers Put Peyton Harrison On Hot Spot

Peyton Harrison, executive director of the Hawaii Aeronautics Commission, is seen by Territorial observers as the person most likely to take the rap for the huge, unauthorized expenditures at the Kahului airport, now admitted by the commission to total $87,958.

Mr. Harrison has the responsibility, it is pointed out, of halting unauthorized expenditures, and those who have followed recent HAC hearings say William Neilson, Kahului airport manager, has done much to clear himself by his possession of proper vouchers, requisitions, etc.

But as commissioners have stated again and again in open hearings, the real moving force behind the Kahului expenditures is Commissioner Harold W. Rice. That being true, Mr. Harrison may have had little choice, from a political viewpoint, in ignoring the mounting bills at Kahului.

From Iolani Palace this week, the RECORD learned that Mr. Rice was also a strong supporter of Harrison when the retired rear admiral, then serving as Gov. Stainback's "naval attache," sought the director's job.

Mr. Harrison made a quick trip to Maui, the story goes, following his return from Washington where he had accompanied Stainback. Shortly afterward, Rice was campaigning for Harrison as director.

"Commission members were led to believe," says an HAC source, "that the governor wanted Harrison for the job."

Stainback Surprised

When the commission thereafter voted for the appointment of Mr. Harrison, no one was more surprised than Stainback.

"It wasn't that he opposed the appointment," says an informed (more on page 23)

Recent Ruling On Burns' Job Is At Odds With First

Back when there was much political skirmishing to see who would be appointed Oahu County director of disaster relief, Russell K. Kono of the C-C attorney's office wrote an opinion to the effect that the position should come under civil service. The opinion was backed up by C-C Attorney Wilford Godbold.

The opinion created a certain hubbub because John A. Burns, chairman of the Democratic county committee, was foremost among applicants for the position. Prevailing thinking at the time was that such political activity would be impossible for the disaster relief director.

But Burns got the job and no strong objection was ever voiced, against his political activity, so he has continued as Democratic county chairman.

But now, in December, Acting C-C Attorney Frank McKinley has written another opinion, conflict- (more on page 18)

D. R. Sherretz' Right To Appeal Is Questioned; Four Applicants for Job

D. Ransom Sherretz, C-C civil service personnel director until he was fired by the commission last week, notified the commission of his intent to appeal his discharge. But some question has arisen as to whether the personnel director has an appeal coming.

Act 319, which governs civil service practice in the Territory, sets up carefully the manner in which a director is hired, but it does not describe the means of his dismissal.

"He is hired by the commission," said one expert on such matters, (more on page 23)

Burke, Beaten By Cops On Hotel St., Denies Fighting

When two sailors got into an argument with two local boys on Maunakea and Hotel Sts. last Saturday morning about 2 o'clock, young Francis Burke, 1454 Pele St., says he told his friends: "We'd better move on or we'll get in trouble."

Burke is the well-built youth of 19 who was involved in a fight with Officer Cabral some months ago and, as witnesses told the RECORD, got roughed up considerably after a number of other officers arrived to help Cabral out.

"I think they've been laying for (more on page 18)

"Loyalty" Ad Against Rizal Day Ires Filipino Community; Gets Hot Replies

Ray Salcedo and Antonio Lamadrid, operators of a shoe repair shop on Pualahi St., told the RECORD this week that their shop sent out the advertisement, published in a daily last Friday, which was "amazing" to Juan C. Dionicio, acting Philippines consul general here.

The advertisement, over the name, "Filamercian Citizens' League," advised naturalized Americans of Filipino extraction: "If you are a true American, do not make a mockery of your American citizenship by being active in the commemoration of Rizal Day."

The advertisement, in contradiction to the "Filamercian" signature, quoted Theodore Roosevelt as follows: "There can be no divided allegiance here. Any man who says that he is an American, but something else also, is not an American at all."

Many Hit Back

Since its publication, the advertisement has drawn strong criticism from a number of sources, notably Lt. Roland D. Sagum of the police department, who is chairman of a committee to prepare a celebration of Rizal Day, Dec. 30.

Lt. Sagum wrote: "Should the Chinese community be criticized ostracized or condemned because they observe Double Ten Day? The Italians, Garibaldi Day? The Irish, St. Patrick's Day?"

The argument of Mr. Lamadrid and Mr. Salcedo in the face of this kind of reasoning is that, in the past, unscrupulous persons have used Rizal Day as an excuse for promoting "rockets." (more on page 23)

MY THOUGHTS

For Which I Stand Indicted

XV.

From Behind Barbed Wire To Idaho Farms

A sickness of fear and suspicion was taking hold of numerous people in Manzanar Relocation Center, a barbed wire compound a mile square, penning in 10,000 of us of Japanese ancestry. In April and May of 1942, when evacuees were crowded into the first relocation center, they sensed the presence of FBI informers among them.

Many aliens who were relieved because they had not been picked up by the FBI and separated from their families, feared that some stoolpigeon might be writing letters to the FBI that they had been active in Japanese churches, language schools, fencing and other organizations. And they expected FBI agents to reach into the barbed wire enclosure, pick them up and herd them away. The fear of the FBI was paralyzing to the aliens in the early week of our concentration. This was particularly so to those who had rushed into Manzanar, expecting that prolonged stay in Los Angeles would inevitably result in their arrest. Thus, they were extremely cautious.

Koji Ariyoshi

Some of these men had been of some influence in the Japanese community in Los Angeles and by arriving at Manzanar as pioneers, they conveniently became instruments through which the Caucasian administrators dealt with evacuees. They thus occupied important positions in the new community. The Caucasian administrators apparently believed that in using the "pacifying" influence of these former leaders of the Japanese community, they would be able to run the camp smoothly.

While criticism was directed against people of Japanese ancestry as potentially subversive and "pro-Japan," it seemed more logical that Nisei would be put in positions of importance. It was not that the aliens were anti-U. S., but the mere fact that the Nisei were run-

"Glory To God In the Highest, and On Earth, Peace, Goodwill Toward Men"

By WILLIE CROZIER

We are about to celebrate the birthday of the King of Peace. There is no more important issue for mankind today than universal peace, a pre-condition for mankind regardless of race or color, to live and let live.

So the principles of Christian doctrine I quote here have profound and important meaning: "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, goodwill toward men."

Now what does this mean?

To me as I view the whole world of mankind, I find the following quotation as one that points out a condition where we, as professed Christians, have failed in practicing the doctrines of Jesus Christ: "The West has lost Christ; that is why it is dying."

"The East is looking for Christ; that is why it is in revolt.

"The crisis of the East comes from without, namely, its revolt against the materialism of Western civilization. The crisis of the West comes from within, i.e., from its moral decline and loss of faith. The East struggles with the problem of existence; the West struggles with the problem of guilt. The first is common to people who have not found Christ; the second to those who have lost Him. The West can save the East only on condition that it regains the faith; the East can give itself only on condition that it embraces the faith."—F. J. S.

I now quote from page 683 of the Encyclopedic 60th Anniversary issue:

"To Freedom based on property ownership rather than dependence upon giant groups, social policy must favor distribution of wealth

ning the camp would have been proper in counteracting anti-evacuee propaganda of the press.

But as an assistant camp administrator told a few of us: "What the hell, you're all behind barbed wire anyway. It doesn't make any difference."

This person was a tall and husky lawyer who soon earned the reputation of being able to out-talk anyone in camp and he boasted and spread this information about himself. When the director, who formerly managed an Indian reservation, made a mistake or the camp administration had to go back on its promises to us, which it often did, this assistant director bullied, cajoled or argued 10,000 of us into accepting the administration's viewpoint. Lower down the echelon the administrator's Caucasian staff had healthier attitudes toward us.

Reign of Terror At Terminal Island

In Block 10 where I lived, the great majority of the residents were from Terminal Island. They were fishing people, and the aliens had come from Wakayama in Japan, which is the native home of most of the immigrant fishermen on the West Coast and in Hawaii. Because Terminal Island was classed as strategic, the people of Japanese ancestry were given 30 days to evacuate the area not too long after the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor. But one day the government issued an emergency order for them to clear out of their homes within 24 hours. Chaos followed, with families being forced to sell their possessions for almost nothing.

This forced removal followed a pre-dawn FBI raid on the Island's Japanese aliens, dramatized as almost all FBI raids are. This was indeed a reign of terror, and this is a mild statement.

If the FBI agents had walked up to the homes of people, knocked on doors gently and told aliens they were under arrest, the drama would have lacked headline and hysteria-creating qualities. The wee hours of the morning apparently lend to imagination, with FBI agents yelling and pounding on doors, and rushing into bedrooms, flashing badges and giving orders to frightened women and to crying and horrified children.

Precedents That Have Robbed People of Rights

This kind of behavior by G-men prevailed during the Palmer raids, and it still is a tactic of the FBI, particularly during periods of repression. Once done, it gets repeated by emboldened agents, until an aroused people put a stop to such conduct that flouts the constitutional rights of the people in their faces.

In like manner, when Indians, who are the native Americans—robbed of their land and paperized—are kept in government custody in reservations, it is a step not far removed to put 110,000 people of common ancestry behind barbed wire.

These are precedents that have robbed people of their rights and make it easier to take other similar steps. Thus, in January 1950, the Justice Department revealed that it has a program to put 21,105 people behind bars or in concentration camps—people who would be haled into court for their thinking and tried for their ideas.

Same Kind of Repressive Conduct

Raymond P. Whearty, the acting assistant attorney general, said that the 21,105 includes "persons who are active members of the Communist Party and similar organizations, or who appear (emphasis is mine—K. A.) to be acting in concert with Russian interests . . ." A sweeping and dangerous generalization, no different from the concentration of 110,000 people of Japanese ancestry in 1942, ostensibly for security reasons, alleging that we were potential saboteurs.

In Manzanar of 1942, a person identified as an FBI stoolpigeon was despised as a lowly creature. There was one person who told confidants he was keeping the FBI informed. One day he was sitting on the porch of a block leader's office. At that time, some evacuee laborers were delivering rolls of linoleum to the earlier occupied barracks and they stopped to leave a few rolls at the block office. My longshoreman friend from San Francisco was the block leader there and he told me later that one of the men heaved a roll that crashed through the porch flooring, not quite reaching where the suspected FBI informer sat. My friend said this seemed deliberate but the suspected person pretended not to notice the intention of the delivery man.

Many People Were On Edge

Too often the temper and mood of large groupings of evacuees were ugly and unpredictable. A small incident would excite a whole barracks or even a block. We learned through letters from the Santa Anita assembly center that a riot took place there when evacuees became incensed at an FBI suspect.

Shortly after my arrival, I worked on the Manzanar Free Press. A large staff of aspiring writers produced a weekly of two mimeographed sheets. One became exhausted trying to get an item in the paper with so many writing for it. Later on it became a four-page tabloid but by then I had left the staff, worked as a laborer clearing sage brush, and as a policeman. The police station was the center of almost all complaints and we knew practically everything that went on in camp. Still later I became a police postal inspector, examining packages that came in.

The Threat of Being Mobilized Into Labor Battalions

One day a labor recruiter for the Amalgamated Sugar Co. of Idaho came to Manzanar, looking for several hundred laborers to work in the sugar beet fields. He said manpower shortage was ruining crops. The response was very poor and only a few volunteered. The evacuees distrusted the government and there was good reason for this attitude. So many promises had been broken.

Because of the poor response an Issei spokesman for the camp administration addressed a mass meeting at night, called specifically to urge volunteers to go to Idaho. He intimidated the evacuees that if volunteer procedure failed, the government would draft us for labor battalions. This was already common talk.

Look Back To Contract Labor Days

During the day the labor recruiter talked to evacuees and he promised ideal working and living conditions, wholesale prices for groceries and the camp administration promised freedom to evacuees while they were in Idaho.

"No guards with bayonets?" we asked.

He said "No," but that this might result if labor battalions became a reality through lack of cooperation on our part.

I was concerned that evacuees might be used as migratory laborers, transported from one farm area to another, without adequate protection, and exploited as farm laborers in California. With hysteria whipped up against us, we would be at the mercy of white farmers.

It was depressing for me when I looked back over a period of 45 years, to the time when my parents had come to Hawaiian plantations as contract laborers. All the gains made since then by our people seemed to have been wiped away, even for the time being.

The Barbed Wire Enclosure Seemed To Give Protection

I asked the assistant camp director whether the War Relocation Authority would protect us.

"Can we return to Manzanar when the season is over or when the deal does not work out well?" I asked.

Ironically, I was asking him whether I could come back into the barbed-wire confinement.

He said to me: "Why do you want to come back here? The WRA will protect evacuees everywhere and at all times!"

"If we are mistreated or abused, would we be brought back here?" I kept asking. "It is safe here."

He told me not to worry, that the ground had been prepared for a favorable reception in Idaho. He said we would be pioneers, paving the way for relocation of evacuees.

Only 129 Volunteered from Manzanar

I read a contract and signed up. Because I was a policeman, the chief of police asked me to help the company recruiter in handling affairs of our men. There were only 129 of us volunteers.

We rode a bus to Reno where we were herded together like cattle, into a restaurant through the back door. The company recruiter apologized, saying that he wanted to avoid any unpleasant incident. We ate heartily of the good food, for "freedom," even on a leash, after being penned up was refreshing.

During the train trip from Reno to Rupert, Idaho, an AJA from Hawaii, who had been a seaman, and I talked to the volunteers on the need of organizing ourselves. We told the men we needed a council to handle labor grievances, committees to do public relations and look after our community mess and other problems. Men like George Shibuya and Ben Masaoka, and several Hawaii-born Nisei, thought this was an excellent idea. For hours we circulated among the laborers and talked to them. But most of them were too full of the spirit of freedom and looked to the enjoyment in Rupert and other Idaho towns.

"Something Terrible Has Happened"

Then the train pulled into Rupert. I began to help unload baggage when Meno-san, a tall Issei, came running to me.

"Something terrible has happened!" he told me.

"Please come quick," he said and rushed back to the head of the train.

I followed and there I saw a one-armed sheriff standing in front of the evacuee volunteers with a disdainful look on his face. There was a strong smell of liquor on his breath and he was driving as he growled from twisted lips. His hand played with his pistol holster.

"All you Japs will stay in the tent camp! You go out when the farmers come for you with their trucks. When they bring you home, you'll stay inside the fence!" he said, and his narrow frame swayed. He said he would not be responsible for vigilante activities.

The Recruiter Had Given Us Empty Promises

I asked a white farmer if there were any sugar company officials around. He pointed to a tall, handsome man and I went directly to him. This person was greatly relieved to be able to talk to one of us. He said he was Harry Elcock, the manager of the company in Idaho. He cautioned me not to get alarmed.

"We were promised freedom," I told Mr. Elcock, and that we had looked forward to that. I also told him that we were promised good working and living conditions, not pup tents.

He told me that the recruiter had been sent from the home office in Utah and did not know local conditions in Rupert, about pup-tents and fields overgrown with weeds.

"Japs Live Like Rats, Breed Like Rats"

Although Mr. Elcock tried to minimize alarm, he showed deep concern. He spoke candidly from the very first. He told me that Governor Chase Clark of Idaho had said only a few days before that the "Japs live like rats, breed like rats and act like rats." The governor had said he did not want any "Japs" in Idaho. A U. S. Employment Service representative who was in charge of the farm labor tent camp said the governor had advocated dumping all "Japs" back on the islands of Japan to be drowned like rats when Americans bombed them!

Our men were uneasy. They sensed hostility and many spoke of returning to Manzanar.

Caller Advises Scribe To Probe Puunene Lunches

Telephone calls, some of them anonymous, are often the sources of news stories, sometimes disclosures of public interest. More often, the anonymous ones are not.

But our Maui reporter, Eddie Ujimoto got a call at his home last week which he hopes to have run down before the next issue of the paper goes to press.

The caller, a woman who refused to give her name, said lunches at the Puunene School cafeteria are being left uneaten by children because of the manner in which the carrots and cabbage are cooked. The caller didn't say exactly how she thought the cooking should be improved—whether the vegetables are undercooked or overcooked. But she did suggest that it's something the Parent-Teachers Association might well look into.

Lihue ILWU Women
Report Successful
Organizing Drive

LIHUE, Kauai—Unit 5 of the ILWU Women's Auxiliary, Local 21, reports a successful year of organization, not only in Lihue proper but also at Kealia and Hanalei. An organizing committee has been set up.

Unit 5 contributed $25 to the Lanai pineapple strikers after a visit by the Lanai "bumming team" headed by Mr. Narito. Funds were raised through showing a benefit movie and sale of pork and Filipino cakes.

Officers for 1952 will be: Mrs. Misa Shimizu, president; Mrs. Hilda Valera, vice president; Mrs. Rosie Gongob, secretary; Mrs. Milfred Watanabe, treasurer; Mrs. Beatrice Bernal, marshal; Mrs. Suzie Manipon, Amelia Ferreira and Judy Gongob, trustees. Mrs. Cleofe Bias is the outgoing president for the 1951 term.

Ex-servicemen are entitled to automatic pay raises granted by their employers while they are in military service.

Silva Tells Kauai ILWU Women Jack Hall Indictment Aimed To Behead Union

LIHUE, Kauai—A chicken heka dinner on Nov. 19, prepared by the Grove Farm and Lihue units, and the election of officers for 1952, brought to a formal close an active year for Local 21 of the ILWU Women's Auxiliary.

Frank Silva, ILWU business agent, was the chief speaker. He emphasized the necessity for a strong defense for Jack W. Hall, ILWU regional director indicted under the Smith Act, pointing out how the indictment was aimed at beheading the union movement in Hawaii.

Auxiliary Local 21 voted $100 for the defense of Mr. Hall and each of the local's units pledged itself to raise money during the coming year for the same purpose.

Officers for 1952 elected at the dinner were Mrs. Catalina Valdez, president, replacing Mrs. Mitsue Takamatsu; vice president, Mrs. Misa Shimizu replacing Mrs. Bella Ana; secretary, Mrs. Mitsue Takamatsu, replacing Mrs. Sue Kunimura; treasurer, Mrs. Hilda Valera, replacing Mrs. Misa Shimizu; marshal, Mrs. Mabel Alesna, replacing Mrs. Suzie Manipon; reporter, Mrs. Sue Kunimura, replacing Mrs. Rosie Gongob; trustees, Mmes. Jackie Villamil, Lei Niau and Millie Kunimura, replacing Hilda Valera, Natsue Shimigawa, Edith Villamil and Dorothy Morimoto; executive board member, Mrs. Mabel Alesna.

Mrs. Valdez Tells Of Mainland Trip

KOLOA, Kauai—Members of Unit 4 of ILWU Women's Auxiliary, Local 21 felt rewarded for their efforts in helping send Mrs. Catalina Valdez as the local's representative to the San Francisco convention when Mrs. Valdez addressed them on Nov. 21.

Mrs. Valdez reported that although she was an islander and had met only a very few of the delegates to the convention, she felt at home among them because they all were working as sisters for a common goal—advancement of the union movement. The feeling of sisterhood with the delegates, regardless of race or background, Mrs. Valdez said, was a wonderful experience.

Unit 4 officers for the coming year are: President, Mrs. Magdaline Serran; vice president, Mrs. Sophie Lorac; secretary, Mrs. Sue Kunimura; treasurer, Mrs. Kimie Kageyama; marshal, Mrs. Mary Gonsalves; reporter, Mrs. Millie Kunimura; trustees, Mrs. Mitsue Takamatsu and Mrs. B. Bromero.

Basic hourly pay for Hawaiian longshoremen in 1941 was 60 cents. Current pay rate is $1.61 per hour, which will be raised to $1.81 under the newly negotiated pay hike, not yet approved by the government.

Dannog Shows Fallacy Of Plantation Reason For Segregated Camps

HANAPEPE, Kauai — Mariano Dannog has, in his own way, dealt a strong blow against the old and established practice on plantations to segregate workers of different ancestries and pit them one against the other. He has shown that immigrant workers speaking different languages, can live and enjoy life as the best of neighbors.

The language barrier is one of the reasons given by various plantations for housing workers of different national origins in separate camps, and this, Mr. Dannog has neatly exposed as unwarranted.

When he came to Hawaii as a sugar worker in 1916, practically 30 years before plantation workers organized themselves into a union that now unites people of various ancestries, he was assigned by McBryde Sugar Co. to live in Camp Seven, Elelee, where he still resides today.

Camp Seven was then a solidly Japanese camp and he was alone among Japanese, a rare arrangement in segregated workers' camps. He set himself to learning Japanese and even today his facility in the language is a source of astonishment and pride to his friends.

Today, Mr. Dannog finds little use for the Japanese language as Camp Seven, with over 100 adult male residents, has become solidly Filipino except for the Makisluma family that conducts one of the two little stores in the village.

THE FACTS OF LIFE

By MARTY SOLOW
(Federated Press)

"Who's telling the truth?" the New York Daily Compass asks as it quotes the following statements:

From Gen. MacArthur's first report to the United Nations, July 25, 1950: "The character and disposition of the Republic of Korea Army indicated that it did not expect this sudden attack."

From Maj. Gen. Willoughby's recent article in Cosmopolitan Magazine: "There was a marked tendency . . . to smear Gen. Mac-Arthur . . . after the alleged 'surprise' of the North Korean invasion on June 25. The entire South Korean army had been alerted for weeks and was in position along the 38th parallel."

Good question!

BEHIND THE HEADLINES

Newspapers recently front-paged stories to the effect that the U. S. per capita income was at an all-time high. True, BUT reports made to the joint congressional economic committee revealed that there are 10.5 million families subsisting on incomes of $2,000 a year and less. That's about 40 million people.

Air Force Uses Fresh Coffee for Sweeping

WASHINGTON (FP)—The Senate preparedness subcommittee under Lyndon Johnson (D. Tex.) reported Dec. 7 that ground coffee was being used at Carswell Air Force base in Texas to sweep the floors.

In a study of extravagance at six air bases, the committee reported that there was some overstocking of coffee, spices and some other items in several dining halls. On hand in one mess hall at Carswell Air Force base were 19 1-lb. cans of leaf ore-gano and 400 pounds of ground coffee. With the 10-day supply of ground coffee on hand, regular issues of coffee continued three times a week.

"The sergeant in charge stated that 200 pounds of ground coffee, which cost 67 cents per pound at present prices, was too old to use and would be utilized as sweeping compound for the floor."

The committee reported that although present dining equipment is in excellent condition, it is being replaced by upholstered chairs and elaborate tables. The investigators also found new dormitories are virtually "hotel style" and that "there are still too many able-bodied men filling chair corps jobs."

Average hours in durable manufacturing varied between 41.5 and 42 a week during the first half of 1951, but hours in non-durable manufacturing declined from 40.2 hours a week in January 1951 to 39.4 during June.

Misuses of Religion As

By REV. STEPHEN H. FRITCHMAN

Let me begin today by saying in all seriousness that the present revival of interest in religion frightens me dreadfully. Christianity has of late acquired some fellow travellers who can be the death of it. Radio entertainers like Red Skelton and Eddie Cantor are now telling us to go to Sunday School and say our prayers. Congress has set aside a special room off its main chambers where religious services are held daily. We have added "Under God" to our salute to the flag. Books on peace of soul and the power of positive thinking break all known sales records for religious books. As we increase our fire power in armaments we increase our united front with the Almighty. Billy Graham speaks to forty thousand citizens in a Berlin stadium and brings his total audience for his European journey to several hundred thousand persons. Almost every Hollywood film has a homespun priest in the cast of characters. Bishop Fulton J. Sheen is the unquestioned star performer on television in 1954. Post-war church construction from coast to coast has kept the architects busy and builders and carpenters, electricians and stone masons at their tasks to the tune of many millions of dollars. Every visitor from Europe comments on the bewildering number of costly new churches found in every city across our nation.

Not Alone In These Fears

Unless all that I have learned over the past forty years is wrong, terribly wrong, we are seeing a flushed, frenetic and feverish revival of religion that can lead to a shattering revulsion later, and overwhelming contempt for religion a few years from now. You may remember this prophecy. This sermon, a brief summer homily to a group of friends, will be filed away and you may remind me of it ten or twenty years from now. I am being very flat-footed and uncompromising in my prediction: much of this recent "return to God," this post-war genuflection toward the altar, will bring us to no good end. It is of the lips, not of the head or heart. It is foxhole religion in cold war years, and we will live to regret it. Christianity and Judaism are both trapped by their increasing respectability. Many people are coming back into the churches today for the wrong reasons. Religion is being misused. If I am wrong, let there be a heresy trial; but I do not think I am alone in these fears.

Religion is being used today as a means to unworthy ends, especially orthodox religion. Willingly or unwillingly, clergymen, church members, church officials are compromising the very essence of pure religion in order to play the good fellow, to be on the popular side, to support the prevailing tribal customs which are in desperate need of moral undergirding. We are being confused and betrayed into thinking honestly that this is a great revival, a wonderful march forward, a cause for trumpets and hallelujahs. Before I finish this morning I shall speak of some of the simple and positive functions of religion as I understand them, but first let me give a few examples of this current misuse of religion which so disturbs me today.

We Are In Grave Danger

The past 100 years have been years of astonishing and accelerated advancement in scientific knowledge in many fields including medicine and health. Yet during these years much religion has turned its eyes backward and spurned the new advances. Christian Science, Science of Mind, Unity and other sects with scores of thousands of adherents defy the doctor and the laboratory scientist. They are preaching healing doctrines straight out of the New Testament, written 2000 years ago in a pre-scientific age. Radio preachers offer blessed handkerchiefs for sale which will cure cancer, nephritis and tuberculosis. Rev. Mr. Jagers advertises in the daily papers that he will "lay his hands" on every child coming to his services to prevent polio infection. Disease is called a fiction of the mind. Symptoms of physical degeneration are ignored medically until irreparable damage has often been done. Churches of both Catholic and Protestant persuasion (among many others) shamelessly resort to magic and cultus beside sacred grottos, by pools presumed to have supernatural power. Millions are duped and millions pay for it with their very lives.

Rev. Stephen H. Fritchman is minister of the First Unitarian Church of Los Angeles, 2936 West Eighth St. Prior to taking his present position in January 1948, he served nine years as national executive director of youth activities for the American Unitarian Assn. From 1942-47 he was editor of the Christian Register, official publication of the Unitarian churches in the U. S. and Canada. He is an author and editor of books. Before entering the ministry he served as religious news editor of the New York Herald Tribune.

In the past one hundred years the natural sciences of geology and botany, physics and astronomy have reported with magnificent detail the apparent nature of our universe including this our tiny planet earth. The early work of Copernicus, Galileo, Darwin and Clark-Maxwell has blossomed into whole new areas of knowledge, most spectacularly the nature of the atom and the nature of the starry heavens above us. Yet in this same century we have new pronouncements from the Vatican on major events of Christian tradition which, if true, make utter shipwreck of what the scientist tells us. . . . Both cannot be right. We cannot have both Genesis science and Einstein science. Fundamentalist Protestants like Dr. Graham and the lesser evangelists give us a cosmos neatly built out of timbers from the Book of Daniel and the Book of Revelations, which are meaningless gibberish to a student of modern astronomy and physics. We are in grave danger of sinking into a Know-Nothing Christianity commanding no respect from mature men and women. American Protestantism cannot afford to condone such a tragic dissolution of organized religion.

If Police State Comes To U.S.

But in 1954 the greatest misuse of religion is none of these things I have so far mentioned; it is the accentuated campaign to make religion the partner of reaction in business, in government and in culture. This is a very ancient partnership at which we Americans are mere novices. The bishops of Franco's Spain could teach us much. The priests of the Pharaohs of 3000 years ago along the river Nile could teach us much. And there are many today ready to learn these dubious lessons. This is a momentous gamble. We are seeing a very bold effort, an effort to place all organized religion on the side of conservative institutions, including our government, our industrial and commercial corporations, our controlled educational system, our privately organized communications . . . press, TV, radio and film.

If public relations can make a nation religious by campaigns of skilled manipulation, we shall soon be on a new crusade which will dwarf the crusades of Frederick Barbarossa, Richard I and Philip Augustus in the middle ages. It is not beyond the realm of possibility that we shall blot out reason, stifle research, imprison the dissenter and enter into a new and frightful theocracy for untold years of darkness. I have read enough of H. G. Wells, Bernard Shaw, Pohl and Kornbluth, Aldous Huxley and George Orwell to know that we cannot dismiss this grim, and frightening possibility. The police state, if it comes to America, will not only use the symbols of patriotism; it will also be exceedingly religious and will omit none of the sacraments and rituals of church and temple.

The evidence for this major effort to line up religion on the side of reaction unfortunately lies about us in dismal profusion. In Dr. Fossdick's famous pulpit in Riverside Church, New York, on June 27th, Dr. Ivar Hellstrom, minister of education in that church for 15 years, declared: "All advocacy of social change, all attempts to extend the scope of democracy, or to work for peace outside of narrow and officially approved limits are suspect in some areas of our national life. Many writers," he added, "proclaim the American way of life of free enterprise of the 1890s as practically synonymous with the Christian ideal of society." Dr. Harry F. Ward, my Christian ethics professor at Union Seminary in the late 1920s, recently told me of the activities of the so-called "Circuit Riders," the Methodist business men who are seeking to drive into the wilderness all preachers of the social gospel. A similar group of large industry executives in Texas has organized to purge the pulpits of that great state of all modernist preachers with too great a dedication to the Old Testament prophets, the Sermon on the Mount and the First Amendment to our Constitution.

Washington Said Otherwise

President Eisenhower has already signed a law making it obligatory for citizens saluting the flag to say "one nation under God indivisible with liberty and justice for all." The project was initiated by the Knights of Columbus and carried into the Senate by a Protestant, Senator Ferguson of Michigan, and into the House by Louis Rabaut, a Roman Catholic. Mr. Rabaut has also worked diligently to get religious phrases onto postage stamps, and onto cancellation machines in our postoffices.

Senator Ralph Flanders, a Protestant from Vermont, has introduced an amendment to the

Partner of Reaction

Constitution which would read "This nation devoutly recognizes the authority and law of Jesus Christ, Saviour and ruler of nations through whom are bestowed the blessings of Almighty God." Thus would our present Congress seek to make us a "Christian" nation, utterly ignoring George Washington's sage and simple declaration: "The government of the United States is not in any sense founded on the Christian religion." The labors of Jefferson and Madison are now the target of those bitterly hostile to religious freedom.

The Same Congress Which . . .

Let me point out that this legislation of religious conventionality cannot be discussed in a vacuum. It must be remembered that the same Congress which seeks to profess religion so loudly and to broaden the borders of its garments and enlarge its phylacteries and repeat its prayers from the housetops and shout its alms before all mankind is the same legislative body which even many conservative newspapers are calling the "give-away Congress." We have seen our off-shore oil turned over to the states and private enterprise. We have just witnessed a 13 day struggle in which the administration's give-away of atomic energy production to private business set a new record in American history for the surrender of the people's collective wealth. The Smith Act, the McCarran Act, the Taft-Hartley Act were written by church-going Congressmen.

At the same time as the Atomic Energy debate went on in Congress, the Subversive Activities Control Board questioned day after day a prominent Episcopalian Clergyman from Brooklyn, New York, inquiring into his social and political opinions with excessive zeal. It wanted to know above all else whether Dr. William Howard Melish thought it possible for a man to be both a Christian and a Communist. He answered, of course, that under certain conditions it was indeed possible. The following day this opinion of Dr. Melish's was treated as something little short of lunacy or treason. Yet Dr. Melish could have said, as Dr. Joseph Fletcher, another Episcopalian minister, did say a week later, that some of this generation's greatest and most respected religious leaders have made precisely the same judgment. The greatest living Protestant theologian in Europe, Dr. Karl Barth, made the statement several years ago. Archbishop William Temple of London said the same thing shortly before his death. I am happy to say that Dr. John Howard Lathrop, our Unitarian minister in Brooklyn, wrote to the Eagle, and had published, his confirmation of Dr. Melish's statement. He said what is commonplace to any informed person, that there are hundreds of thousands of Christian Communists in the world today, in Italy, in China, in Poland and Yugoslavia and elsewhere, Catholic and Protestant alike. Dr. Joseph Hromádka of Czecho-Slovakia has made this fact transparently clear to the World Council of Protestant Churches more than once at its international gatherings. While probably very few American Christians are Communists, it is important to see the reason for the public examination of Dr. Melish and the asking of this leading question. We ministers are clearly warned by such hearings—of an Oxnam, or a Melish or a McMichael—that we should never question the inseparability of Christianity and our prevailing capitalist way of life. If we read Dr. Temple or Karl Barth in years past we are now to forget their words. We are to see them as barely forgivable ecclesiastical naïvete.

 "The Misuses of Religion" was the September Sermon of the First Unitarian Church of Los Angeles, given by the Rev. Fritchman. His sermon is broadcast over the air every Sunday evening over Station KABC and the sermons of the month are published in pamphlets. With the Rev. Fritchman's permission the RECORD reprints excerpts of "The Misuses of Religion."

Want Docile Clergy in Pulpit

Those Congressmen, public relations experts and industrialists who are concentrating on a purge of organized religion today, in the name of orthodoxy and loyalty to free enterprise concepts, know full well that such public exhibitions, and their coverage in the press and on the air, will tend to make for a more docile clergy in the pulpit the following Sunday. These men know that for the past fifty years much church leadership in this country has grown socially responsible and openly critical of a great deal in our institutional life. They know that in village, town and city, preachers and their lay members have worked for the end of segregation, for decent housing for the workers of the nation, for the raising by law of scandalous wages to migrant agricultural labor, for the rooting out of anti-semitism in our schools and colleges, our labor unions and social clubs. They know also that the campaigns against conscription, the campaigns for UNESCO, the campaigns against colonialism and preventive war are often manned by church people, a minority to be sure in any single denomination, but enough possibly to infect the majority "minding their own business" as good Christians, so we are told, should.

The present drive by our Congressmen and some of our business leaders to regiment religion is a tribute, inverted and awkward though it may be. I am saying today that it is a misuse of religion to make Christianity compulsory and conventionally respectable, the hallmark of the safe and sound citizen who can be trusted not to get out of line, who will periodically come before the various Committees on Un-American Activities and ask for a license to exist, and be given a bill of health sealed and certified that no independent thought has taken place.

A Tide Proves Stronger

Believe me, there are a lot of us ministers who are troubled about the effort to make the church into a common harlot for sale to the highest bidder. Dr. Robert McCracken, the great New York preacher, sensed this danger the other day when he said in a sermon reported in the New York Times: "For too many religion is a spare time interest, it is something to be attended to on Sundays and odd evenings. It has little to do with the way they run their business, or pick their life partner or the way they reach decisions on political issues. Their aim in life is a conventional one . . . to improve their position, to get on, to make enough money to retire in comfort at 65 or earlier. They have no difficulty in reconciling these aims with church membership. But they would have great difficulty reconciling them with the principles of Jesus Christ."

It is just this sort of thing being said in a respectable minority of pulpits week after week, that troubles our custodians of the present arrangements. There is a considerable army of men and women, clerical and lay, who do not consent to the misuse of religion, of its being made into a high gloss for painting the conventional pattern of American success. The principles of Jesus, of Amos and Isaiah, of Buddha and Gandhi, of Jefferson and Channing, of William Temple, of Harry Ward and Walter Rauschenbush have entered into the souls of millions; and it will take more than Whitaker and Baxter or Young and Rubicam, more than Senator Flanders or Congressman Rabaut to extirpate them. There is something intractable, something that defies control and indoctrination, in all fresh and growing religion. These misuses of religion are all too real and undeniable, but they are never completely anchored. The mooring chains snap. A tide proves stronger than the toughest hawser . . .

Religion Helps Us To . . .

Religion deals primarily with the present, with today, with your living consciousness, and mine, and my neighbors 4000 miles away. With Walt Whitman I want to help men affirm life and its goodness when the husks of fear and habit are removed. Religion is the power to deal with our potentialities. It is the zest for making the most of each day. There is so much to do in one day that a thousand opportunities remain unused when sleep falls on us at the day's end. Religion, rightly used, shows us how to discover what are reasonable hopes for ourselves, and how to avoid the frustration of wishing we were geniuses or kings or millionaires. Religion helps us to be at home in the universe—without wanting to be promised a life in some mystic realm beyond the grave. Religion helps us scale our expectancies to our highest possibilities.

Religion has to do with accepting and enjoying our responsibilities; it is the understanding of our shared duties as human beings; it deals with clothing and housing our families; it has to do with a decent accomplishment in our jobs, however humble they may be or however exalted. Religion is related to honest workmanship, to the integrity of our word, to seeing ahead of time the need for patience and love when others are hard-pressed.

Religion Is Your Resolution

I mention these examples because so much religion is obscured by layers and layers of disguise, of ornament and irrelevant decoration. I am afraid that at times I have unwittingly aided in the confusion by adding to the impression that religion is something of the past, of tradition, of authorized versions of truth from a thousand years ago. We need to be everlastingly alert to keep children and adults alike from thinking of religion as the Ten Commandments, or the axioms of Confucius, or the beatitudes of the Galleian. These are good and useful, of course, but sheer antiquity is no hallmark of truth. A thousand ministers in chasubles and Geneva gowns and reversed collars are standing in pulpits this morning, and too often confirming the idea that religion is a revelation from some men dead thousands of years before Magellan sailed the Straits. Religion is not a Papal Bull, nor a decision of a Presbyterian synod, nor an edict of the Sanhedrin, nor Channing's Baltimore Sermon; it is your resolution to enjoy the present hour, to make your peace with your neighbor; it is your laughter at the comedy of life right now; it is your sensing the momentousness and significance of this day, 1954.

There is more truth in the world at this hour than in the days of Jesus or Moses or Thomas Aquinas. Let us cease our worship of Douglas Ednie, Guido Giacometti, Gavien A. Bush, W. L. S. Williams, Thomas Strathairn, Peter C. Beamer, J. Wendell Carlsmith, H. Lindgren, John Dykes and one or two more.

Woman Refuses To Pay Tax for War

"I refuse to contribute a single penny to war and thus be a milestone dragging my country and the world down to eventual death and destruction. Therefore I refuse to pay the entire Federal tax and will take the consequences."

So writes Mary Bacon Mason, Faith-Humanist, of Newton Center, Mass., in a letter directed to President Truman last February. Since then the letter has been reprinted many times and has become the basis for a move to "Oppose War By Tax Refusal."

"I seek faith in and loyalty to the Father-Creator of all and desire to be in harmony with and helpful to all humanity. This requires peace, cooperation, trade and non-violence toward all human beings regardless of dangers, provocations or consequences."

"Imagined Enemy"

The national administration has, under the leadership of President Truman, violated those principles, Mary Mason charges, in Korea when "we hastened into violence eagerly, stating openly that the great USA needed the annihilation of this small and remote community in order to safeguard itself from an imagined enemy—the Russians—whom we had previously announced we would 'contain' in all parts of the world."

Any sum she might pay, Mary Mason writes, toward the beneficent functions of government would largely be diverted to war, "For it is common knowledge that 80 per cent of all monies received are diverted to the financing of war."

To date, so far as is known, the me since then," says the young man. "I didn't have anything to do with the sailors."

Roughed By Cops
Two witnesses present with him bear out Burke's story that an officer stepped up and arrested him, charging him with assaulting the sailors. When he protested, Burke says, other officers joined in and at least one hit him with a black-jack.

"There were about eight policemen," says one of the witnesses. So Saturday morning, Burke displayed two blackened eyes, lumps and cuts on his head and long abrasions on his back as a result of the affray. He does not know the officers' names, he says, "but I'd know every one of them if I saw them again."

And what happened to the boys who were really fighting with the sailors?

"I don't know," says Burke. "I guess they took off."
Burke was arraigned Tuesday charged with assault and battery and obscene language. His trial was set for January 11.

Three out of four families in the U. S. own an automobile. Last year motorists traveled more than 465,000,000 miles over the nation's 3,000,000-mile highway network.

Recent Ruling Of Burns' Job Is At Odds With First

ing with Kono's, that Burns does not really belong under civil service because he is a deputy of Territorial disaster relief under Director William Cobb.

And that opinion has the concurrence of Attorney General Walter Ackerman.

"But is Burns really a deputy of Cobb?" asks a C-C official, "or is his superior, Engineer Karl Sinclair, really Cobb's deputy? Sinclair doesn't come under civil service, right enough, but his assistant does, and Burns is one of his assistants."

And since the Federal government assists disaster relief by matching funds appropriated by the Territory, what of the Hatch Act? Does it apply to Burns?

Burns' political foes make little secret of the fact that they feel the later ruling is far from displeasing to Governor Long, who expects strong cooperation from the disaster relief director in reviving the Democratic Party.

The first modern court injunction against labor, requested in New York in 1880, was denied. One of the earliest granted was in Iowa, in 1884.

In Wailuku it is not an uncommon sight to see the fire engines speed by to the scene of a fire, to be followed later by the fire chief. The people who observe the fire station closely say that Chief Alex Oana is not around 9 out of 10 times when there is fire. It's Lt. Thomas Noda who is always there with the firemen, directing them as soon as they arrive at the place of the fire.

A tourist not long ago had an interesting comment to make when he saw the fire engines dash by and was surprised to see the siren-blowing chief's car speeding by sometime later.

"On the Mainland the fire chief is generally ahead of the engines and the chief is on the spot to direct the fire fighting," he said.

In Wailuku, people are asking whether Chief Oana is actually on call 24 hours a day or has he worked out a program where his assistants pinch hit for him.

ONE POLITICIAN on Maui may run either on the Republican or Democratic ticket come next election, politicians say, and almost everyone who's in politics here doesn't have to guess that the man is former Circuit Court Judge Cable Wirtz. As soon as Wirtz stepped down from the judicial bench he was retained as a legal counselor for the A&B and HC&S companies.

Mr. Wirtz is regarded by liberal Democrats as one of the "surplus Republicans," a term which is getting to be popular in the Democratic Party. In his case, it is reported that the term describes Big Five connections.

Gadabout

SEATING ARRANGEMENTS at Saturday night's dinner in honor of Secretary of Interior Oscar L. Chapman at Queen's Surf were not so democratic. The affair was staged by prominent Democrats in the Territory as a farewell occasion for Mr. Chapman before his return to Washington. All seats were reserved, and it turned out that guests who bought tickets were supposed to sit at the tables of those who sold them the tickets. But it didn't work out that way, and people from Oahu wound up sitting at tables unofficially intended for politicians from the outer islands.

One man, who also attended the Republican function for New York's Gov. Dewey, also at Queen's Surf, said the distribution of seats was on a first-come-first-served basis then.

"STEALING PENNIES from a blind man" has always been a phrase to describe the lowest depths of human conscience—but we have residents who fill the bill and they're to be found right on Fort Street where friendly, soft-spoken George Lewai has his stand. We happened by his stand last Thursday when Mr. Lewai, who lost his sight as the result of a plantation accident years ago, had just discovered a penny dropped in his box where a nickel or a dime should have been.

"You wouldn't think there'd be anyone that cheap, would you?" George asked sadly.

As the RECORD reported a year ago, the number of persons who steal from George Lewai and other blind news vendors in Honolulu is shocking. It is shocking, for that matter, that there should even be one such case.

RICHARD "KINJIE" KIMBALL, who runs the Halekulani Hotel, and who appeared a couple of weeks ago at a board of supervisors meeting to blast rent control, mentioned at that meeting that he is president of the Hawaii Hotel Association and that the organization has gone on record as opposing rent control. He also identified Roy C. Kelley, also present and landlords' keynoter at that particular meeting, as an officer of the association. But since the meeting, he has revealed that the association did not authorize the appearance of either to spearhead the boisterous attack on rent control. Kimball said he and Kelley got together and decided they should lambast rent control at city hall, and no one else in the organization was consulted at all.

SUPERVISOR John M. Asing comes in for much of the blame for the boozing Leslie Ladd of the rent control commission took from the rowdy landlords at that meeting. Instead of limiting discussion to the amendment then on the floor, Asing acting as chairman in the absence of Mayor Wilson, allowed Kelley and Kimball to use the occasion for bringing in all their objections to rent control of any sort. Do you suppose Asing would have remained equally immobile if a group of people used a public hearing on a subdivision to lambast the land monopoly of the Big Five?

JOE ROSE, according to talk here and there, has recovered from whatever illness caused him to take a vacation from KHON and will be back riding the airwaves—this time with KPOA. While he was on KHON, plenty of articulate Big Island fans objected to his treatment of sports.

IT WOULD be interesting to know if Gov. Oren E. Long ever supported any Democratic candidate against Joe Farrington. Some who know the governor's affinity for the Farringtons say it dates back 30 years to a time when Long and Joe's father, Wallace Rider Farrington, had a common interest in gardening—especially as an educational activity.

Sports World

By Wilfred Oka

SPORTS TID-BITS FROM HERE AND THERE

Ollie Matson, San Francisco University's All-American backfield star, set numerous offensive records playing for the West Coast school. But what surprises us is that on many of the All-America teams he is listed as a defensive back, rather than offensive. Matson could not be left off the so-called All-America teams so the compromise of putting him on as a defensive back is merely to salve the consciences of the selectors.

THE RUBBER MATCH between the Kakaako and Palama barefoot teams takes place at the Honolulu Stadium Sunday, starting at 2:00 p. m. Palama won the last outing and deposters figure the Palama team to come out on the long end of the score Sunday.

EVERETT CONWAY, straight man at the New Century Follies, does a specialty number on the traps and drums. What strikes us is the fact that the beating he does is done with one hand. In fact he climaxes the act by handling three sticks with one hand and making with Yankee Doodle. Conway also has a reputation as a golfer and is a crack shot with a revolver.

POSU TALIVAA, the Army and Navy champ in the light-heavy class, should be an excellent pro prospect. Posu, a Samoan lad, has lots of class and ring savvy. Managers are sending out feelers but Eisho Toyama has the inside track.

WE CAN'T UNDERSTAND WHY the University of Hawaii hires a lot of part-time employees at the Honolulu Stadium as ushers and roustabouts, who are full-time employees elsewhere, some even drawing their regular checks from the city-county. For example, the ticket collector at the main gate makes a fairly good living working in a downtown office. The Stadium certainly has a number of jobs that the college lads can very well handle. And we know a lot of kids who need jobs. This is a matter for the Board of Athletic Control to look into.

THE MOVIE, "Jim Thorpe, All-American," touches on the controversial pro-amateur status of the one-time Olympic star who had to return his trophies and medals earned on track and field because he had earned a few needed bucks for himself playing semi-pro baseball. The National AAU and many local committees have been pretty strict on the amateur question. Locally, many athletes lost their amateur standing for accepting "pay for play" while going to school. The irony of it all is that many college athletes who later became nationally known baseball stars, were on the payrolls of big league ball clubs while still cawing on college teams. But then, they never donned a pro uniform; Thorpe did. And therein lies the difference—if there is one!

REPORTS EMANATING from pre-convention meetings of the National AAU to be held the end of this month at Daytona Beach, Florida, indicate that the executive committee of the AAU is planning an amendment to the general rules of the organization which may force small clubs, the backbone of the AAU, out of business. The proposal reads: "Every organization which receives a sanction for any contest for which an admission fee is charged or received, shall pay to the treasurer of the AAU association having jurisdiction, an Olympic tax of five per centum of the established price of each ticket sold." This is for every year, not just Olympic seasons. To top it all, there is another proposal which would add 25 cents to any tickets of any National championship meets, to be called an "Olympic contribution."

Jimmy Powers of the New York Sunday News, has this to say regarding the National AAU: "It's a sorry state of affairs for the young athletes of this country. It's a shame the AAU has so completely forgotten the ideals for which it was established. The hierarchy wants to take, take and take. It never gives—it doesn't even offer competent leadership in a field where much could be done. It is morally irresponsible. It's time to clean house. Without the PALS, the CYOs, the Parks Departments and the colleges, there would be no AAU. Maybe that wouldn't be a bad idea, either."

along many lines. There must be living space for nations. There should be every encouragement for small and medium sized business. Wage earners should become property owners. Finally, the farmer should be protected in his vital vocation. Each of these points recurs in Papal messages.

That some nations need more space for surplus population, he readily concedes. But the right method is orderly emigration to the great unused land spaces of the earth. He asks for the more favorable distribution of men on the earth's surface suitable to colonies of agricultural workers; that surface which God created and prepared for the use of all. (May 15, 1941). Such migrations will benefit both the country which gives its sons and the nation which is enriched by their industry.

"More than this, there must be access to raw materials so that nations less richly endowed may have a chance to survive. Within the limits of a new order founded on moral principles, there is no place for that cold and calculating egoism which tends to hoard economic resources and materials destined for the use of all, to such an extent that the nations less favored by nature are not permitted access to them." (Christmas 1941). A year later, the Pope asked for a 'generous sharing of forces between the strong and the weak,' in the interests of universal peace.

"Clearly the right to private property does not mean the right to hoard resources selfishly in open disregard of the common good. If such an attitude were to prevail, desperate men would seize what they need. Hence the Pope warns those who so interpret and use the relationships of private property that they succeed—even better than their adversaries—in overthrowing this very institution, so natural and indispensable to human life, and especially to the family." (March 7, 1948). Unless a sound international jurdical and economic order leads to the effective distribution of the world's wealth, we are bound to have strife and even war."

A lawyer came to Jesus and asked which was the greatest commandment of the law. Jesus answered: "The first and greatest commandment is:

"Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, strength and mind, and the second is like unto it: Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself. On these two hang all the law and the prophets."

Jesus Christ said: "Amen, I say to you, inasmuch as ye did it to one of the least of these my brethren, ye did it to me."

So Christians of Hawaii: Do we or don't we practice in everyday life the teachings and examples of Jesus Christ?

D. R. Sherretz' Right To Appeal Is Questioned; Four Applicants for Job

"and it may be that he is fired at the pleasure of the commission without appeal. It may be that the legislature intended to put the office outside civil service."

The chief of police and the executive secretary of the liquor commission are, for instance, hired by commissions which are, themselves, appointed. If they had an appeal, it would be, not to the commission which hired them, but to the civil service commission which governs their respective agencies. But an employee who is hired by the civil service commission would be appealing to the very body which fired him, and he could hardly expect such a hearing to be unprejudiced.

No One Ever Got Job Back Even though Sherretz should be granted an appeal and then be vindicated by the commission which fired him, he would still land, with an entirely different background.

Although it is not known whether the error was intentional or not, the reference is reported to have been used in an effort to convince Washington officials that Serrao was not worthy of the position to which he was later appointed.

Another libelous statement Serrao's opponents are reported to have written to Washington was one drawing allegedly incorrect and unfair conclusions from the fact that he was not a member of the armed forces during World War II.

Although it is impossible at this time to name the writer or writers who may face legal action from Serrao, those names come from the list of those who either opposed his appointment, or those who opposed his policies when he was Territorial land commissioner.

stand small chance of reinstatement if previous practice is followed. Mandatory reinstatement of vindicated employes has often been sought, and it was recommended by the 1949 holdover committee of the legislature by every witness who appeared. But to date, no employe has ever been reinstated to his job, no matter how clearly he was cleared of charges which caused his dismissal.

In any event, Mr. Sherretz' permanent successor will be determined by a three-man board, to be chosen by the commission, which will open all application envelopes and determine the merit of the applicants at one time.

Thus far, no written applications have been filed, though four persons have made inquiry, the RECORD learned. The person who gets the job must have, among other things, a CAF-14 civil service rating.

Who are members of the Filipino Citizens' League? Neither Lamadrid or Salcedo answers this question, but Lamadrid refers to "two fellows from Wahiawa." He said he had told Mr. Dionicio the names of those responsible for the advertisement.

But Mr. Dionicio told the RECORD that Lamadrid had mentioned only the name of Salcedo. It is believed Lamadrid may have referred to a photographer and a publicist.

Young People Laugh "I was amazed when I saw the advertisement," Dionicio said, "and I wondered if it represented the thinking of second-generation Filipinos. I wondered what the young people thought about it."

As nearly as the consul general had been able to determine, the younger generation only laughed about the advertisement.

Others blasting the advertisement and the thinking behind it included Antonio Ramia, president of ILWU Local 142; Ray Bartolome of the Fil-American Veterans and the Rev. E. C. Yadao, president of the Filipino-American Citizens' Association, Inc.

The Rizal Day celebration is to be sponsored by at least 49 organizations, many of which include both people born in the Philippines and those born in America. It is planned as a simple literary and musical commemoration, Mr. Dionicio said, and will be held at the Princess Kawananakoa School the evening of Dec. 30.

Persons of the Filipino community are cooperating fully in preparations for the program, Mr. Dionicio said, and admission is free to everyone.

source. "He just didn't care who they appointed. He felt it was the affair of the commission."

As for the Kahului expenditures, HAC talk has it that there's still another bill for $25,000 worth of pipe for the installation of permanent lights. But that can't be confirmed until the bill is presented to the commission.

THOUGHTS DURING CHRISTMAS

Christmas, with all its diversified and commercialized trimmings today, originated in a most humble manner many centuries ago, when in a stable at Bethlehem, Jesus was born in a manger, among the gentle beasts of burden.

The fact that the great religious teacher and advocate of social change was born in such humble surroundings has historical significance.

For it was after a long and tiring journey from Nazareth to Bethlehem, with Mary riding a donkey led by Joseph, that Jesus' parents were turned away from lodging places in Bethlehem. The Jews were then persecuted by the exploiting and oppressive Romans of the imperial regime and their puppets, who were set up to control local areas. The Romans, like all subjugators, kept people divided and in fear, in order to keep them under control.

Mary and Joseph knocked on many doors, and some people were prejudiced against them and others were afraid to give them shelter because of the Romans. And Bethlehem was crowded with subject people coming there to report for a census the Romans had ordered.

The Roman empire then was far gone in the process of decay from rottenness within, and the poor and downtrodden looked for salvation. In Palestine, rumors spread time and again that a Redeemer was coming to succor the suffering people, and this rumor disturbed King Herod, an alien ruler despised by the restless people who aspired for a better life. Thus, in fear and uneasiness, Herod ordered the extermination of every Jewish boy under two, one of whom might become the leader who would threaten his privileged position.

To save their new-born Son, Mary and Joseph fled to Egypt, then later settled in Nazareth. There Jesus grew to be a carpenter.

John the Baptist, cousin of Jesus, was then trying to unite his people, awaken their consciences to the inherent strength they possessed in resisting Roman oppression. For this, John the Baptist was arrested, imprisoned and executed.

Jesus reacted to this by leaving His work bench and going to His people to carry on the religious teachings of His cousin. Protest against abuses and demand for social change at that time found expression in religious teachings.

Thus Jesus told His followers that "It is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle than for a rich man to enter the kingdom of heaven." What would Wall Street have done to Him!

He drove the money changers from the temple and He exposed greed, corruption, exploitation of the poor. He talked against despotism and bigotry and His gentle voice stirred the minds of men.

And so the Romans and their lackeys crucified Him. They charged: "He stirreth up the people . . ." He was disloyal, blasphemous, "subversive" and seditious, they said, but history has shown that He was on the side of the masses. His crime was ardent and steadfast devotion to the people against vested and special interests and the privileged class.

And like the stoolpigeons of today, there were betrayers of the masses. For thirty pieces of silver, Judas Iscariot fingered Jesus and had Him crucified. And the misled and the selfish even spat on Jesus as He was led to His execution.

Jesus came at a time of great social upheaval. The old Roman empire was crumbling, a slave society where men and women and children were bought and sold and also captured from the enemy and enslaved. The official municipal class—the curiales—was groaning under the weight of heavy taxation which went to the privileged few. And the curiales who collected revenues resorted to graft and corrupt practices, just like those we find today. There was a moral degeneration like that preceding the French revolution.

While the French revolution ushered in capitalism, when decadent feudalism was unable to satisfy the needs of the people, the social upheaval of the old Roman empire of slavery gave way to medieval feudalism.

The political anarchy and economic misery of the Roman period made the poor look for a redeemer and a new religion. Paul, Jesus' disciple, did a magnificent job of spreading Christianity. This new religion appealed to the masses, for it had warmth and advocated human brotherhood, and in this respect was far advanced from the pagan religions dominant at that time.

Christianity clashed with emperor worship and the Roman state religion, and the spirit of independence among Christians caused violations of Roman laws.

Peter and Paul tried to assure the Roman authorities that the Christians recognized the divine origin of secular government but this did not stop the "blood-letting," and Nero made a pyre out of live Christian bodies to light the garden where the privileged feasted.

But the people wanted change and Christianity stirred religious thinking that helped to bring about the change and no torture or persecution devised by Rome could stop the people's movement.

Nero started his reign in A. D. 64. By A. D. 300, there were so many Christians that persecution was ineffective and Christianity defied Roman imperial rule. Emperor Galerius in A. D. 311 revoked the execution of 303 Christians and started an era of tolerance. Constantine, in A. D. 313, issued the historic Edict of Milan which legalized Christianity.

Looking back over a period of 1900-odd years, we find many parallels today to occurrences then. Social changes are going on and the privileged few use force and violence and propaganda, instill thought control and fear, all in the effort to protect their special interests as against the interests of the masses.

So at Christmastime, we wish freedom from exploitation for all colonial and semi-colonial people where wars of subjugation are going on. Imperialism must come to an end. Peace and goodwill must prevail among all people, producing not for Wall Street's profits or for British or French imperialism, but for the common good—and not for destruction.

All this depends upon the common people who have made vast strides over centuries of time, so that on earth, there shall be peace and goodwill toward men.

MERRY CHRISTMAS!

Frank-ly Speaking

By FRANK MARSHALL DAVIS
"PEACE ON EARTH . . ."

We have come again to the Christmas season, that time of the year when ordinarily we talk loudly and constantly about "Peace on earth, goodwill to all men."

Where, this year, is peace? What has happened to goodwill?

Peace, in America, is a dirty and dangerous word. A few weeks ago, four American citizens went on trial in Washington, which says that it wants only peace, because they induced other Americans to sign a petition asking for peace. A Federal judge who had kept his sanity in this time of madness, turned them loose. But despite this setback, governmental opposition to peace continues.

MR. DAVIS

Wanton Killing In The Season of Peace

Billions of dollars in American wealth are being spent for war goods and propaganda. Meanwhile the huge corporations swell their treasuries almost to bursting from profits on war contracts as the ordinary guy must not only stretch his pay check up to meet living essentials but must find added dollars to fork over in increased taxes—so that the huge corporations can be fed even fatter profits.

"Peace on earth—"

The casualty list in Korea expands day by day. Men die in Egypt in the clash with Britain. Malaya, Indo China and the other areas wanting to control their own destinies free of outside domination, find men and women losing their lives in the season of peace.

"Peace on earth—"

We have the know-how of the atom bomb, of bacteriological warfare and other methods for mass destruction of mankind. We can kill each other but we can't get along with one another. Our atomic scientists have brought us to the point where, if we cannot have peace on earth, we will hardly have a piece of earth left.

No Peace Without Goodwill

As for goodwill, how can the world have that without peace. Or, for that matter, how can we have peace without goodwill?

If there were goodwill in America, there would not be the ethnic and national discrimination and group antagonisms that characterize our national life. And we would have a better chance of winning support among the darker peoples of the world.

Speaking recently in Winston-Salem, N. C., Elmer W. Henderson, national director of the American Council on Human Rights, said:

"The world is being divided into two opposite camps: world communism, led by Russia, and world democracy, led by the United States. Then there is a vast mass of people outside of these two great aggregations who have not made up their minds to which camp they belong.

The Brown and Black-Skinned People Will Choose

"Many thoughtful people believe the balance of power is still in the hands of the undecided people who are in general the brown and black-skinned people of Southern Asia, the Pacific Islands, Asia Minor, Africa and India.

"They want to be free, but not necessarily to adopt communism or democracy if there is not real freedom under these ideologies. They are saying: 'If we accept the offer made us by America, we may find ourselves in the same situation as those Negro citizens in America who are constantly being segregated and discriminated against in various ways.'"

"—and goodwill to all"

Down in Opelousas, La., a Negro, John Lester Mitchell, was shot and killed two weeks ago Sunday by Deputy Sheriff David Landos of St. Landry Parish. The killing occurred, on the grounds of "justifiable homicide," just two weeks after Mitchell had filed suit against the registrar of voters of St. Landry Parish on the ground that he was not allowed to register because he was a Negro.

No Discrimination Among People of Goodwill

Four weeks ago, another Negro, Alvin Jones, died in a government hospital in New Orleans as the result of a beating administered one year earlier by two St. Landry deputies because he tried to register to vote. And yet the right to vote is theoretically accorded all citizens of this democracy.

"—and goodwill to all"

There is no discrimination and jim crow among people of goodwill. Above all there should be no racism in an army which is supposed to be fighting for democracy. Yet the American Veterans Committee has just issued a statement charging the army with dilly-dallying in the matter of ending segregation of colored troops.

Yes, the world in general and our America in particular, could use quite a bit of "peace on earth and goodwill to all men."
