VOLUME XX

Ewa, Hawaii, October 24, 1969

NUMBER 43

The Plantation

Sugar production was about 1,630 tons. Grinding rates averaged 2,920 tons of net cane per day. Lost time was held to a minimum. The TC/TS ratio was 9.03 compared to 9.34 for the previous week. Mill extraction averaged 96.18. Hay plant production was 107 tons.

Harvesting operations for the week resumed Sunday afternoon in Field 74.2. Field 74.2 was completed Monday night and Field 74.3 on Thursday. A total of 156 acres was harvested during the week.

Irrigation flumes and pipes in Field 31 between Asing Park and Ranch Road have become a target for young vandals in the area. If this vandalism continues, measures will be taken to terminate this activity. No other acts of vandalism were reported. Mechanical equipment parked in Field 74 was closely checked over the weekend.

Registration for the annual meetings of the Hawaiian Sugar Technologists, November 3 to 6, shows that 55 Ewa supervisors will attend all or part of the sessions.

In anticipation of the completion of harvesting in early November, the H.S.P.A. tour was closed down for the year at the end of the week. Visitor log for the 1969 season showed:

Million Ton Mark Passed

Hawaii's sugar production passed the million ton mark during the week ending October 11 when total production by the State's 24 sugar companies reached 1,012,696 tons.

Leading in production with 169,027 tons as of October 11* was giant Hawaiian Commercial and Sugar Company of Maui. Some 100,000 tons behind but in second place was Waialua Sugar with 65,598 tons. Oahu Sugar was third with 62,283 tons.

Ewa ranked seventh according to production as of October 11, 1969. Rankings may or may not reflect final production standings as production schedules on the four sugar islands were disrupted earlier this year as a result of the 31-day sugar strike.

*Latest industry-wide figures available as of press time Thursday.

Aloha United Fund Drive - 1970 Over the Top on A Job Well Done

|            |                 |           |
|------------|-----------------|-----------|
| EWA'S GOAL | PLEGGED TO DATE | % OF GOAL |
| $17,000   | $17,672.50     | 103.96%   |

A surge of last-minute pledges pushed Ewa's 1970 Aloha United Fund campaign over the top as the drive ended at Ewa this week. Fund Treasurer W. A. Mair reported a final total of $17,672.50 pledged, or 103.96% of this year's goal.

Responsible for this year's success were 578 Ewa employees who pledged an average of $30.57, or 4.8% more than last year's average pledge of $29.18. The 578 fair-share givers are to be congratulated for so generously proving that they care. Especially deserving of recognition for a job well done are drive co-chairmen, Bob Cushnie and Benny Apostadiro; fund treasurer, W. A. Mair; and secretary, Mrs. Miyeko Ogawa, who handled the paper work involved in processing the fair share pledges.

Four Sugar Papers Awarded

Four sugar plantation newspapers received certificates of excellence for journalistic achievement from the Hawaii Plantation Industrial Editors Association at the group's annual conference Friday, October 17 at the Ilikai Hotel.

Hawaiian Commercial & Sugar Company's A & B Banner, edited by Larry Ikeda, was a double winner, receiving the award for best overall publication and tying with two other papers for best community feature.

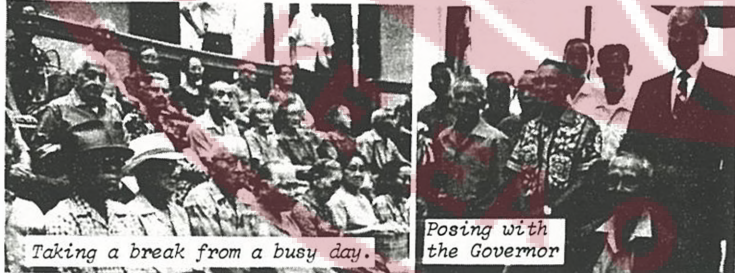

Also a double winner was Ewa Sugar Company's Ewa Hurri-Cane, which won best safety feature and tied for best community feature. (Hurri-Cane staff, take a bow).

Third paper in the three-way tie for best community feature was Hawaiian Agricultural Company's Pahala Community News, edited by Delmar Kleckner.

Best photo award went to the Naalehu News, Hutchinson Sugar Company. Roy Replogle is editor.

The Hurri-Cane's winning community feature appeared in the October 25, 1968 issue and described a civil defense training exercise held last year at Kahe Point. The safety feature, appeared in the May 9 issue this year and dealt with the dangers of littering, especially with broken glass.

Ewa Pensioners' Club Outing

Taking a break from a busy day.

Posing with the Governor

One hundred twenty-five Ewa pensioners and wives enjoyed an all-day outing touring the State Capital and visiting the Honolulu Zoo last Thursday, October 16. For many, it was their very first visit to the new capital building and their first visit to the zoo in a long time.

At the State Capital the pensioners were received by Governor John A. Burns. After chatting with the governor and posing for pictures in his chambers, the group toured the rest of the Capital, pausing to try out the gallery seats in the House of Representatives.

Lunch at Kapiolani Park and the zoo visit followed. Accompanying the pensioners on their outing were Ernest Abe, Tony Bise and Max Galapia.

The Safe Way Is the Ewa Way

TOO BUSY?? In these busy days at work, in our homes, on the highway or wherever we might be, the general trend seems to be to hurry. We seem to be in a hurry to get some place so that we can turn around and hurry back to where we came from. Our lives are geared to a speed that forces us to keep abreast of modern times. However, our downfall comes about when we lose sight of the safe, correct methods and procedures which accompany speed of current times. We fail to realize "why" so many fall by the wayside in the big rush. An analysis of the cause will usually show that they were just too busy for safety.

If you're too busy for SAFETY, - then you're just too busy!!

Quality Education Offered

Each night this fall, after dinner, in millions of American homes, children will settle down to their studies--and so will their parents. Many parents will further their education at night school and about five million will be enrolled in home study courses.

Through P.T.A. meetings and School Board elections, parents will try to assure quality education for their children. But, how can parents assure quality education for themselves? For those who will learn through home study courses, the answer is to enroll in schools accredited by the Accrediting Commission of the National Home Study Council.

Just as schools are examined by accrediting agencies, these agencies are evaluated by the U.S. Office of Education. The Accrediting Commission of the NHSC is the only one which the U.S.O.E. has approved as "a nationally recognized accrediting agency" for private home study schools.

What does accreditation mean to home study students? It means that the school has been thoroughly examined and meets the following standards:

It is a competent faculty; It offers educationally sound and up-to-date courses; It carefully screens students for admission; It provides satisfactory educational service; It has demonstrated ample student success and satisfaction; Its tuition charges are reasonable; It advertises its course truthfully; and It is financially able to deliver high quality educational service.

If you are thinking about furthering your education through home study, be sure the school you select is accredited. Look for the seal of the National Home Study Council in school advertisements. It's your best assurance of educational quality. Or if you're interested in finding out what courses are available from accredited schools, send a postcard to the National Home Study Council, Washington, D.C. 20009, and request a free Directory of schools and courses. You'll find that more than 500 courses are offered ranging from art and accounting to welding and writing.

Jimmy Ornellas and Don Panoncial are shown holding their prize catches--the fish that didn't get away. Both fishermen were using Jigmaster reels with 200 yards of 61 lb. test line. The fish were caught with tako bait near Barbers Point.

Jimmy landed his 55 lb. ulua in 20 minutes plus a 1/4 mile hike along the shoreline last Saturday morning.

Don's catch was a 43-pounder on Wednesday afternoon. The ulua struck at 5:00 P.M. and was "in the bag" by 5:30 P.M.

Ulua and papio are not the only fish biting these days as proven by Noboru Okoji. He brought in a 10 lb. 4 oz. olo using a light spinner last Friday evening near Barbers Point.
