

KCC STUDENT JOURNALS

DIRECTORY OF ONLINE KCC STUDENT PUBLICATIONS

MONDAY, MARCH 30, 2020

Welcome to Kapiolani Community College's Directory of Publications

The Kapiolani Community College releases 3 publications every year. These are: Ka'imiloa, Ka'iwi Polena and Le'ahi.

Ka'imiloa is a campus journal showcasing student writing and artwork with a global emphasis.

Ka'iwi Polena is a journal showcasing student writing with a Hawai'i emphasis.

Le'ahi showcases the best work from students in KCC's English 22 and English 100 classes.

Art work

Art work should be brought to Lama 119, located in the back of the library (east end). If you would like to wait while your art is photographed, please call 734-9120 to make an appointment with a photographer.

Not sure which journal you should submit your work to?

You can leave the decision up to the advisers by leaving the choice of journal section blank.

Make one last check:

Please check your sources for the author's full name, title of work, name of publication, publisher, place of publication, year, etc.

For the correct format for citing sources, see

<http://www.kcc.hawaii.edu/library/citations/index.htm>

The rewards of participating in the Board of Student Publications

- Help make possible contests and readings to showcase student talent.
- Serve on the production staff of one of the journals and develop editing and layout skills and learn to use layout design and web software.
- Work with other students and faculty as a team.
- Earn a stipend as an editor.
- Participation as a journal staff member is a plus when applying for scholarships and awards.

Questions?? Call the Kapi'o Adviser at 734-9120.
