A BULLETIN FOR UH WEST O'AHU FACULTY AND STAFF
This Week at UH West O'ahu
Week of February 21

Campus Mural for Allied Health/Administration Building barrier wall

We want to know: How do we Pupukahi I Holomua, or "Move Forward Together," focusing on the values of Learning, Discovery, and Engagement? We encourage you to share your thoughts on how UH West O'ahu will progress by utilizing those values. Get inspired! Your words may eventually decorate a mural on the Administration/Allied Health Facility construction barrier.

From the valued perspective of 'Ōlelo No'eau to a meaningful hashtag, the only limitation is your creativity - and the 200-character maximum (including a translation if required).

Faculty and staff (students will be solicited as well) - email your submission to uhwocomm@hawaii.edu by Friday, March 3, 2017. A group will screen the submissions. The number of messages utilized will be determined by the final layout (a mockup of the mural design is attached). The mural will be up through approximately Fall 2018.

We also invite the campus to join in painting the mural at a date(s) and time(s) to be announced. Initial painting preparation will begin in late February/early March, with the messages being painted in March. We want this collaborative project to involve students, faculty, and staff.

Any questions? Call Leila Shimokawa at 689-2603 or email lwai@hawaii.edu.

The Future of American Politics, Feb. 22

Dr. Corey Robin, author of The Reactionary Mind — "the book that predicted Trump" (New Yorker) — and Fear: The History of a Political Idea, is the speaker for "The Future of American Politics" talk at UH West O'ahu on Wednesday, Feb. 22, from 2 to 3:20 p.m. in C225. Students, faculty, and staff are encouraged to attend.

Dr. Robin's work has been published in the London Review of Books, Harper's, The New York Times, The Nation, and the American Political Science Review. He has appeared regularly on NPR and MSNBC and is regarded as one of the most cogent scholars of American conservatism. He is currently working on a book about Clarence Thomas, and he maintains an active blog at Crooked Timber and Jacobin.

The event is supported by the UH West O'ahu Office of the Chancellor and the Distinguished Visiting Scholar Fund, and is organized in conjunction with the "Chancellor's Thought-Leader Series" at UH Mānoa.

DE Tip of the Week - EndNote

This month we have been learning about different types of free bibliographic software. Another option to help you organize your reference material is EndNote. This software is not free but Information Technology Services (ITS) has established a site license for the UH System. So you can purchase an individual license for $35.00 that will allow you to use the system for the duration of the UH Fiscal Year. One of the big features of EndNote is that it works with unusual or complex citation styles. This program is also preferred for citing unusual document types or in situations where you have created your own document type. If you are interested in the program please visit: hawaii.edu/sitelic/endnote/. To read other tech tips or learn about other resources visit uhwo.hawaii.edu/distancelearning or email uhwode@hawaii.edu.
