THIS WEEK AT UHWO

a bulletin for UH West O'ahu faculty and staff

Week of January 19

Distance education tip of the week - public domain collections

Accessible public domain collections may be helpful resources for your lesson and class presentations. These resources allow you to use free materials for your coursework while abiding by copyright laws. The New York Public Library recently released more than 180,000 digitized items for digital access. Learn more about the collection via the New York Public Library blog. For more educational tech tips, visit the UHWO Distance Education Lualaba site or email uhwode@hawaii.edu.

Library Workshops

Every Wednesday, 2pm, Library Computer Lab (B-233)

- | | | |
|------------|---|--|
| January 13 | Welcome (back) to the UHWO Library | Whether you're new to UHWO this semester, or if you've been here for years, there's always something new at the UHWO library. Stop by the library computer lab on Wednesday, January 13 between 2pm and 3pm to find out what's new, learn about basic library services, and ask questions of your friendly librarians. |
| January 20 | Choosing a Research Topic/ Getting Started with Database Searching | In this workshop, you will learn how to develop an idea for a research topic into a specific research question. We will discuss techniques for narrowing or broadening a topic, ways to develop keywords, and strategies for using those keywords to find relevant resources in UHWO Library Databases. |
| January 27 | Google Fu | Tired of your humdrum Google searches? Want to impress your friends with your exemplary web research skills? Level up your Google Fu in a workshop where we'll explore tips and tricks to Google's lesser known search tools. |

7th SAEA National Conference
July 29-31, 2016

Hosted by University of California Santa Cruz,
Center for Agroecology & Sustainable Food Systems

With major support from the University of California Global Food Initiative

Co-Hosted by
UC Davis, UC Berkeley, UH West O'ahu, Cal Poly SLO and Swanton Pacific Ranch, ALBA, and Merritt College

Join us to explore this year's conference theme:

“The Ecology of Food Systems: Engaging Interdisciplinary and Applied Education for a Just and Sustainable Agriculture”

Join us in summer 2016 for the 7th National Sustainable Agriculture Education Association (SAEA) conference, co-hosted by UC Santa Cruz, UC Davis, UC Berkeley, University of Hawai'i – West O'ahu, Cal Poly San Luis Obispo, Agriculture and Land-Based Training Association (ALBA), and Merritt College. Major support for the conference has been provided by the University of California Office of the President's Global Food Initiative. The conference will be held in Santa Cruz, California on the UCSC campus, with field trips to regional sustainable agriculture education projects such as Cal Poly's Swanton Pacific Ranch, on the northern Santa Cruz coastline, and the Agriculture and Land-Based Training Association (ALBA), in Salinas.

This year's theme — “The Ecology of Food Systems” — highlights the growing demand for inclusive and critical approaches to sustainable agriculture and food education at the postsecondary level. SAEA has a strong tradition of focusing on interdisciplinary and experiential learning from a systems thinking perspective. In 2016, the conference will emphasize issues of social justice and equity. For more information about the SAEA and past conferences please visit SAEA's website.

The conference invites participants from across the agriculture and food system who are engaged in adult education: students, teachers, trainers, and faculty, independent scholars; farmers, cooks, and community organizers; professionals in health, business, the arts, law, and the media. Participants will represent colleges, universities, farmer training organizations, and a range of professional and civil society organizations. To encourage flexible and interactive learning, the format will be highly participant-driven, featuring Open-Space sessions, workshops, panel discussions, and diverse presentations.

The UC Santa Cruz Center for Agroecology and Sustainable Food Systems (CASFS) is hosting this event, providing opportunities to visit the center's 30-acre campus farm and gardens and learn about CASFS' world-renowned academic programming and Apprenticeship in Ecological Horticulture. For more about the host location, watch this video overview of CASFS by Mark Bittman, journalist, author, and columnist for the NY Times.

We will be reaching out again in the coming weeks with a presentation submission invite, registration details, and conference schedule. Until then, please save the date and spread the word!
